MAINE VOTE BRINGS TALK OF NOVEMBER

Experts Attempt to Interpret Primary Election There Monday

SEE HEAVY CAMPAIGNS

Democrats Get Satisfaction Out of Reduced Majority of Republicans

BY DAVID LAWRENCE Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Washington—True to custom, the Maine election has produced a controversy as to what of Monday's balloting is a forecast of the November result.

All the Republican candidates, both for congress and the state ticket, were elected. Maine is normally a Republican state, this was expected, but the debate centers on what the tabulated vote reveals.

The Democrats point to the reduced majority of the Republicans as a sign of diminished Republican popularity. The Republicans, on the other hand, argue that in an off-year election, the total vote being smaller, the majorities are correspondingly affected.

DEMOCRATS HIT HOOVER

The Democrats did not spend much money campaigning but they did attack the Hoover administration, hoping to turn the tide.

To the extent that Maine was not seriously influenced by the talk of unemployment and depression, the Republican leaders are very happy.

Before the Maine election, some of the political scientists, including Claude E. Robinson of Columbia University, made an analysis of Maine elections for the last half century and reached the conclusion that while Maine's voting frequently coincides with that of the rest of the nation, the saying "as Maine goes so goes the nation," is not borne out by results.

Both parties, however, are happy to have the Maine election behind them. The Republicans were truly nervous about it, while the Democrats had a secret hope that there might be an upset.

GIRL, 3, NEAR DEATH AFTER GAS EXPLOSION

Brother Is Burned When He Dashes into Burning Building After Sister

Despite a heroic effort by an older brother who risked his own life in a dash into a burning building following a gasoline explosion about 8 o'clock last night in a shed in the rear of her home in Kimberly, little Dolores Van Roy, three years old, is near death in St. Elizabeth hospital with burns received in the explosion.

The older boy, Norbert, 20, is at home with severe burns suffered when he ran into the blazing inferno to carry out his sister. Another brother, Joseph, 19, who was in the shed with the little girl when the explosion occurred, also was burned and is at his home where he is being treated.

Attending physicians said Wednesday noon that the little girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Van Roy, had but little chance to recover from the serious burns which covered her head, both legs and both arms.

MAN INJURED IN FALL FROM BRIDGE

William Schroeder, Black Creek, Has Possible Skull Fracture

Falling from the Chicago and Northwestern railroad bridge near the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. mill on Lavest, William Schroeder, route 2 Black Creek, suffered a possible skull fracture Tuesday afternoon when he struck his head on a stone in the river below. The man's injuries included a severe concussion, possible skull fracture, a broken nose, and head lacerations. X-rays are being taken to determine the extent of the skull injury.

Mr. Schroeder was repairing the bridge with a number of other railroad employees. While working on a ladder about 12 feet from the water, he fell into the river, which is only one or two feet deep at that point, striking his head on a rock. He was taken from the river in an unconscious condition by his fellow workmen and removed to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Chicago Pilot Tunes Up Plane For Hop To Paris

Roosevelt Field, N. Y.—(AP)—Hoping to better Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's time for a solo flight to Paris, Captain Roy W. Ammel of Chicago today was preparing his fast monoplane for a transatlantic flight. His plane is a low wing Lockheed Sirius monoplane powered with a 425-horsepower Wasp motor. It is similar to the plane in which Colonel Lindbergh and his wife set a one-stop transatlantic speed record last Easter Sunday.

Rain Proves Benefit To Dry Sections

Washington—(AP)—The agriculture department said today beneficial rains fell in many drought stricken sections of the United States.

Good rains were general over practically all of Kansas and most parts of Nebraska and South Dakota, while Missouri had the most favorable weather in many weeks.

There were substantial to heavy rains over the greater portion of Missouri, although it continued dry in some southern sections. Good rains occurred also in much of Southern Illinois.

Local showers were rather general over Indiana, which benefited pasture crops and late truck but Ohio has been only partly relieved.

West central Wisconsin and southern Minnesota had very beneficial rains.

In the severely droughty sections of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Michigan and most of Iowa, were still largely unrelieved at the close of the week and rainfall was badly needed.

About one-third of Texas had effective showers and rain was fairly general in Oklahoma but more is generally needed in these states.

North Dakota also needs more rain though scattered amounts were helpful, while the last part of the week brought showers to much of Montana.

Recent showers materially improved soil for winter wheat preparation in parts of the Ohio valley but some portions of this area are still too dry, especially Ohio and Kentucky. The soil is now mostly in good condition, except in Iowa, and some northwestern localities.

ABSENTS SELF FROM SESSION WITHOUT WORD

French Circles, Surprised at Grandi's Action, Seek Explanation

Geneva—(AP)—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy suddenly left Geneva by automobile this morning without waiting for the opening of the eleventh assembly of the League of Nations, which tomorrow will hear Foreign Minister Briand of France expound his ideas on his "United States of Europe" plan.

Signor Grandi's almost precipitate departure caused a considerable flurry among the members of the delegations. This afternoon it was the principal topic of lobby gossip, overshadowing the immediate business of organizing the assembly's machinery.

The official explanation given at headquarters of the Italian delegation was that Signor Grandi had arranged in advance to leave Geneva as soon as the council sessions were finished and to return to his business at the assembly to Senator Scialoja.

French circles appeared greatly surprised that Signor Grandi should have departed on the very eve of Mr. Briand's important address. It had been announced Briand would discuss his European federal union plan in the light of the comments received from the countries to whom it had been communicated in a memorandum last May.

The surprise grew when it became known that only late last night Signor Grandi had cancelled an engagement with M. Briand and Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, to discuss the Saar question this afternoon.

CALL OFF APPOINTMENTS A number of Signor Grandi's other appointments were called off this morning.

The Italian statesman's automobile left Geneva just an hour before the assembly was called to order for the first session of its eleventh meeting.

The official explanation of his departure, given with diplomatic skepticism in many quarters. Some observers said that Signor Grandi felt that naval negotiations with France were going very slowly and preferred to be absent when the

FIRE SWEEPS THROUGH DOWN TOWN STORES

Offices and Stores Destroyed in Early Afternoon Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin this afternoon totally destroyed the roof and second floor of the building at 106-108 W. College-ave, housing the Petersen and Rehbein meat market, Hughes Clothing Co., Harwood studio and the office of Dr. E. H. Brooks. The fire was under control at 2:30 this afternoon after firemen had played six streams of water and one chemical line on the burning structure since a few minutes after 12 o'clock. The building is owned by Fred Petersen, 117 E. Franklin-st.

No estimate of the loss could be made today, except that Walter Hughes of the Hughes Clothing Co. said his stock was inventoried at $4,000 and he believed it to be a total loss.

DON'T KNOW CAUSE

It is believed the fire started in the attic over the building but its cause has not been determined. Following a fire in the same building last January all new wiring was installed and the building was thoroughly inspected for fire hazards.

The fire was discovered by Fred Bendt, employed by the Hughes Clothing Co., and Joseph Obermeyer, employed by Petersen and Rehbein. They heard something fall on the second floor and found the fire.

The principal fire was in the attic and it spread over the second floor. Firemen attacked from the roof of adjoining buildings, cutting holes through the tin roof and several streams were carried into the building from rear windows and doors.

Two huge streams played water through the front windows to prevent the fire from spreading. The smoke it was almost impossible to get into the quarters occupied by these men to determine the extent of the damage.

RANSDELL IS DEFEATED BY 34,000 VOTES

Louisiana Governor Wins Democratic Nomination for Senate

New Orleans—(AP)—The majority of Governor Huey P. Long over Senator Joseph E. Ransdell for the Democratic nomination as United States senator continued to mount today as belated returns came in. On returns from all precincts except 144 scattered over the state, the governor led the senator by 34,038 Long having 141,922 and Ransdell 107,884.

In defeating the veteran senator, who has spent 31 years in congress, the governor apparently carried with him to victory three candidates he supported for the house of representatives.

On the basis of available returns the long wave removed from congress Representatives J. Zach Spearling of the Second district and James O'Connor of the first. Paul Maloney, New Orleans, with 19 precincts missing, led Spearling 13,925 to 19,842. A third candidate, R. R. Rochester, got 2,459 votes.

In the first J. O. Fernandez, a state senator, topped Representative O'Connor with only one precinct missing, 24,937 to 23,425.

Representative Numa Montet was renominated in the third over Clarence J. Bourg. Virtually complete returns gave Bourg 8,123, Montet 13,481. Five other representatives were unopposed.

Governor Long, militant 37-year-old executive, won the nomination in the face of a concentrated attack from the newspapers in New Orleans and over the state and at a time when he was under ship fire in connection with the disappearance of Samuel Irbay and James Terrell, the two men who were seized in a Shreveport hotel by state police and taken into seclusion before they could carry out their announced intentions of bringing suit against the governor.

The governor made his fight on the good roads issue, saying he would pave every highway in the state without raising taxes and that if he went to the senate he would get employment for all men out of work.

Long said in the campaign that if elected he would complete his term as governor expiring in 1932 before assuming his seat as he did not wish to place the present lieutenant governor in the executive's chair.

KOHLER SIGNS CONTRACT FOR CALUMET-CO PAVING

Madison—(AP)—Four contracts providing $134,527.25 for improvement of state buildings and for highway construction were approved today by Gov. Walter Kohler.

The highway contract calls for paving 6.5 miles of U. S. highway 10 and state highway 114 known as the Madison-Appleton road in Calumet and Winnebago counties. Koepke Brothers Construction Co., Appleton, will do the work.

Successful bidder for decorating the auditorium and library of the Eau Claire State Teachers college. The cost will be $1,800. The Badger Terrazzo Co., Milwaukee, secured the contract for installing terrazzo floors at the Mendota state hospital for the insane at a cost of $7,800.42.

A contract with the Elliott Co., Pittsburgh, calls for the installation of a generator unit at the state sanatorium at Wales at a cost of $1,109.

Murphy Is New Mayor In Detroit

DETROIT—(AP)—Charles Bowles lost his fight yesterday to regain his position of mayor of Detroit which he won on a reform candidate and lost in a recall election after six months in office.

He had the satisfaction, however, of running ahead of the man engaged by the committee which managed the recall campaign.

The winner of what turned out to be a virtually a three-man race was Frank Murphy, who resigned as Recorder's clerk to enter the contest with the backing of some of the elements which helped elevate Bowles from the same bench to the mayor's chair last November.

Murphy ran approximately 12,000 votes ahead of Bowles, who in turn had a margin almost as large over George Engel, the recall committee's choice. John W. Smith, former mayor, trailed far behind, and Philip Raymond, a Communist, got about 3,000 votes.

The special election came after the second bitter campaign Detroit had witnessed in less than two months, and after a period of political excitement which started within a few weeks of Bowles' taking over the office of mayor on Jan. 14.

Criticism of Bowles started with charges that gambling houses were operating in the city without interference from the centralized police vice squad his commissioner of police, Harold H. Emmons, had created at his instance. The appointment of John Gillespie, veteran of the rough-and-tumble political fights, as commissioner of public works, and charges made in the executive personnel of the municipally owned street car system also came under fire during the early weeks of the administration.

Matters came to a crisis when Emmons directed raids on gambling houses during Bowles' absence to attend the Kentucky Derby. On his return the mayor dismissed Emmons and appointed Thomas C. Wilcox in his place. This precipitated the recall movement, and the election was held on July 22.

In the recall campaign Bowles retained the support of a large portion of the so-called reform element of the city, which in his original campaign had backed him in his original race for the office.

Anti-Saloon League leader asked that he be given a chance to complete his two-year term.

She stepped ashore at South Portland. She went immediately to a hotel at Dover.

She was found there soon after, smoking a cigarette and looking as fresh as if she had just come in from a stroll.

She admitted, however, that she did not feel like swimming back to France "just at the moment," but added that she would be all right as soon as she had a little.

The swim was quite uneventful, except that Miss Dunn was on the face of a jellyfish. This soon passed, however, and did not trouble her. "During the swim I had coral, sea urchins and a lot of things. Throughout I used the tugboat stroke. The temperature of the water gave me some trouble and that was the only thing preventing me from breaking a swimming record."

OSBORN RUNS FAR BEHIND IN MICHIGAN

Senior Senator Scores Easy Victory Over Former Governor

TAKES EARLY LEAD Opponent Concedes Defeat After Returns from 1,834 Precincts Are in Detroit—(AP)—Senator James Couzens Michigan's senior member of the upper house of congress won an easy victory in yesterday's Republican primary taking the nomination which is equivalent to election by a majority which may mount to above 100,000 vote.

Couzens' opponent former Governor Charles S. Osborn, who based his campaign on the senator's party irregularity, conceded defeat when returns from 1,834 of the state's 3,317 precincts showed Couzens leading with 342,116 to 143,339 votes.

With 2,385 precincts reported Couzens had 310,639 votes and Chase S. Osborn, former governor, had 173,753.

In the various congressional districts, with two possible exceptions, incumbent representatives fared at least as well as the hands of the voters. One race remained uncertain today, while in the other, Representative Louis C. Cramton, veteran prohibition leader, was pressed by his opponent, Jesse P. Wolcott, on incomplete returns.

Wolcott, a Port Huron attorney, advocated submission of the prohibition question to a referendum. In 174 out of 191 precincts in the district—the seventh—Wolcott had 22,215 and Cramton 22,347.

DRY OUTCOME UNCERTAIN The outcome of the vigorous wet-dry fight in the Sixth district, where Representative Grant M. Hudson, former Michigan Anti-Saloon League superintendent, sought nomination for his fifth term, remained in doubt. With 335 of the 684 precincts reported, Hudson was trailing his nearest opponent, Seymour H. Person, by 500 votes.

The totals for the 335 precincts: Person 40,100; Hudson 38,693. Returns from 83 precincts in Wayne Co. (Detroit metropolitan area) wiped out a lead of 6,000 which Hudson had held in earlier tabulations from outside precincts. Person had claimed his greatest strength in the Detroit area, in what was of the district's precincts are located.

Hudson's candidacy was strongly endorsed by the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, of which the representative formerly was superintendent. Wet sentiment centered on Person.

IS LARGEST DISTRICT The district is the largest in population in the United States, having approximately 1,300,000 inhabitants. Two other candidates trailed far behind Person and Hudson in the 335 precincts. Robert H. Cook had 5,893 votes and Mrs. Maud Slocum Moros 2,919.

In the gubernatorial race, Wilbur M. Brucker, attorney general, was claiming victory on the basis of a plurality of approximately 74,000 over Alex J. Groesbeck, former governor. Groesbeck, however, claimed that the Detroit tabulation would offset this lead and that Brucker could be defeated.

These hopes rose higher as Wayne Co. (Detroit) returns began to come in early today. Groesbeck began to cut down the lead. The vote, with 2,409 precincts reported, stood: Brucker 239,251; Groesbeck 223,599. Edward J. Jeffries ran a poor third with 49,565.

Tighten Martial Law In Argentina To Stop Reprisals

CENSORS EYE NEWS STORIES AND MESSAGES

Issue Military Edict Prescribing Return of All Firearms

Buenos Aires—(AP)—The new government of the Argentine today adopted the most severe measures to prevent reprisals and counter-revolutionary tactics by friends of the ousted administration of the resigned president, Hipolito Yrigoyen.

Rule by martial law was tightened. Heavy guards were maintained over the city; troops moved through the streets, and fighting planes maneuvered overhead.

A censorship more rigid than has been known heretofore was imposed. The chief of the Argentine press section advised all foreign correspondents that no messages could be sent out of the country which had not been approved by authorized censors. The prohibition applied alike to cable, telegraph and telephone. The correspondents were told that anyone violating the order would be expelled. No code messages were accepted.

The government appeared greatly concerned because quantities of arms were taken from city arsenals during the fighting Monday night.

Two military edicts were issued prescribing trial by court martial for anyone found in possession of arms after 6 p. m. yesterday for anyone acting in any manner against the government and for anyone failing to return within 15 hours any arms belonging to the government.

MANY MORE ARRESTED
Many persons connected with the deposed administration have been arrested. Among the latest to be taken into custody are the former intervenor of Mendoza province, Borzani, and the personnel of his administration. Other members of the Yrigoyen regime have escaped into Uruguay.

General Justo, who was minister of war under President Alvear, and who Monday night was named chief of military forces in the federal capital, has been named commander-in-chief of all military forces of the republic.

The government's theory of Monday night's shooting is that it started when one body of troops from the government house and another from the metropolis each thought the other was moving against the government. There are seven known dead and 45 wounded as a consequence of the fighting.

General Justo last night denied reports that two civilians found guilty of looting the Plaza de Mayo, executed publicly in the Plaza de Mayo.

PROMISES COOPERATION
President General Jose Evaristo Uriburu told the Associated Press today that close cooperation with the United States and active participation in activities of the Pan American Union were to be keynotes of his administration in the Argentine.

Stressing especially his desire for friendly intercourse with the United States, General Uriburu declared: "I desire my government to establish friendly and mutually advantageous relations with the United States and shall name an ambassador to Washington the instant the United States recognizes the new Argentine government."

Touching upon the long vacancy in the Argentine embassy at Washington, General Uriburu said: "Both nations have everything to gain through diplomatic, economic, and commercial cooperation and much to lose through political aloofness in matters in which the best interests of both are bound up."

He declared that other American Republics could depend upon Argentina's wholehearted participation in the program of the Pan-American union, but that this government could not say immediately whether it would be found desirable to resume participation in the League of Nations.

The new government, he said, has set itself to the task of exhaustive study of the entire question of league membership, but in the past Argentina's inability to see eye to eye with the terms of the Treaty of Versailles has been the basis of non participation in the affairs of the league.

IRIGORYEN IN BARRACKS
The president denied emphatically that the deposed president, Hipolito Yrigoyen, had been put in jail or had been taken aboard a warship. "After I arrived at government house Saturday," he said, "I discovered that the president had fled from the capital. Later he was placed in the barracks of the seventh infantry at La Plata where he was held until his resignation."

"At that time his imprisonment ceased. On advice of his physicians he remained at the barracks, since it was reported that his health would be endangered if he was removed. My personal hope is that Sr. Yrigoyen's condition soon will be so improved that he may be removed to a sanitarium where he will be able to recover."

"As proof of the government's concern in his health I will say that attention has been given every possible attention. I personally sent two of the Argentine's most eminent physicians, Dr. Mariano Castex and Dr. Alfaro, to visit him and I am now awaiting their report. Sr. Yrigoyen is free to leave the barracks and if he desires the government is disposed to place at his disposal all conveniences."

"If he desires to leave La Plata on a warship the government will afford him this service. His removal to a private sanitarium seems the best move just now, and I expect his visitors soon to order abandonment of his quarters in the barracks. He presently occupies the rooms of the officer commanding the garrison."

DENIES POLITICAL HOPES
General Uriburu disclaimed any aspiration to a political career. "I am a man and a patriot," he said, "I have never been a politician."

COLBURN TO ATTEND POSTAL MEETING

Head of Shiocton Postoffice Is Chairman of Seventh District

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Colburn, Shiocton, will leave Saturday morning for Houston, Texas, where Mr. Colburn, postmaster of the Shiocton postoffice, will attend the annual convention of the National League of District Postmasters. He is chairman of the seventh district postmasters, including those from Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The organization was founded in Hillsboro, Texas, in 1904, and the man who organized the group of postmasters was dismissed from the service.

At the convention he will describe the early organization. He is Oscar Pogue, a newspaperman of Hillsboro, Texas. It was his fate to be dismissed "for the good of the service" after he had organized county, state and national leagues.

The postoffice department now is entirely in accord with the postmasters' league, and representatives of the postmaster-generals attend all state and national meetings.

The national league sprang from the county organization started by Pogue in 1904. He also was the first president of the group as well as the Texas state league that also was organized in Hillsboro.

Now, at the postmasters' request, he will describe the trials and tribulations of the early organizations.

It was announced Wednesday by members of the committee in charge of parade arrangements. The committee was informed Tuesday by E. C. Moore, band director.

The procession will form at the intersection of E. College and N. Park-ways at 1:50 Thursday afternoon. It will proceed west to State-street and then will disband.

It is expected 32 1931 model automobiles will be displayed by 16 automotive dealers. Each dealer is allowed to enter three pleasure cars in the parade. Chief George T. Fritz will serve as master of ceremonies.

The board of education will meet at 7 o'clock Friday evening at Lincoln school. Matters regarding the opening of the school year will be discussed, together with the usual routine business.

and I do not intend to start now. After three days in this office I am wondering what there is to public office that makes politicians strive to gain it."

He declared his government has a single aim, to reform the country's political structure, taking power from the hands of the elements which have dominated the nation. The ablest leaders from the best elements of the nation will be sought for the provisional government.

"We are birds of passage," he said of his regime, adding that he hoped it would represent an able coordination of the military and the best civil elements in the country to destroy a political system which has enabled political despots to perpetuate themselves and their parties in power.

He declared that under the system which the government intended to bring into existence no party will be so firmly entrenched in office as to be able to dominate all other groups. "When he have brought into being such a state," he said, "the military will retire."

He expressed sorrow that the revolution had been attended with sanguinary fighting. "I had hoped," he said, "that we could occupy government house Saturday without firing a shot. All our efforts were toward peaceful conquest with the army and civilians joining in an overwhelming show of strength."

WRIGHTSTOWN ASKS FOR NEW BRIDGE ACROSS FOX RIVER

Hearing at Green Bay Reveals Unanimous Sentiment Favoring Structure

A unanimous request was made for a new bridge across the Fox river at Wrightstown at a hearing before the Wisconsin Highway commission at Green Bay yesterday. Not a single person opposed the new bridge.

J. H. Van Vleet, village president suggested that the commission inquire into the feasibility of a high bridge from bank to bank, eliminating the necessity of a draw-span, and cutting out the two sharp curves and steep grade which make the present west approach highly hazardous, especially in winter. His proposal would carry the bridge across the river from the highway of the Hentschel hill, about a block south of the present structure.

Jerry Donohue, who presided, pointed out that this plan probably would be feasible if the War department were satisfied with a clearance of 55 or 60 feet above the water. If, however, the connection between the Fox and Lake Michigan led the department to demand a 150-foot clearance, "the plan would be impracticable."

LEWIS KNUTH, chairman of the county board, and member from Wrightstown, spoke of the need for a new bridge to replace the present structure, built in 1882, and in very poor condition. The abutments are crumbling, he said, and the bridge has probably shifted about 6 inches. The draw mechanism is so worn that every week or so it is necessary to insert shims so that the gear teeth will mesh and permit the draw to be opened.

George Koonze, manager of the Fuller-Goodman company, told of the experience of a truck-driver who unavere of the bridge's condition drove across it with a load of 60 barrels of cement. The bridge swayed from side to side so alarmingly, the driver said, that he felt he would be fortunate if he got across safely. Ever since he has hauled his cement around by Kaukauna, Koonze declared.

Jerry Donohue, Fred J. Seguin and E. G. Kuntendick, state highway commissioners, conducted the hearing. Also present were Charles Kersch, bridge engineer, and L. K. Astell, construction engineer for the commission; D. E. Culbertson, division engineer, and Roy Empey, survey engineer, from the division office of the commission here; George Corneiler, county highway commissioner, and members of the county road and bridge committee.

On Wednesday afternoon a similar hearing is to be held on reconstruction of the bridge across the Fox river at De Pere.

COMMITTEE INSPECTS CITY DUMPING GROUNDS

An inspection of the city dumping grounds on the John Tracy farm was made Tuesday by the committee appointed by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., to investigate garbage disposal. The dump was found to be in good condition, and more generally used by Appleton citizens than was at first thought.

Alfred W. H. Vanderhyen objected to the payment of $85 a month for a dumping ground, and presented a resolution to the council asking that the matter be investigated. The committee will consider the matter further before making a recommendation to the council.

INDEPENDENTS WOULD RAISE PRICES OF GAS

Los Angeles—(AP)—Herbert R. MacMillan, president of the California Oil and Gas association and head of the MacMillan Petroleum company, in an open letter to secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, yesterday, said unless the retail gasoline price was raised in California independent producers and refiners would be forced to break agreements to curtail oil production.

The letter to Secretary Wilbur included a copy of one mailed to the Standard Oil Company of California price setter in this district for both crude oil and gasoline.

MacMillan said when the statewide curtailment agreement was made Standard increased the price of crude oil and refiners' curtailed their operations, with a consequent reduction of income.

"So long as the advanced price of the crude oil continues in effect, none of the independent refiners in the state can operate at a profit with gasoline selling at the price (19¢ cents) recently re-established by your company," MacMillan wrote to Standard.

REVIEW PLANS FOR RETAIL INSTITUTE

Plans for the retail conference to be held here Sept. 23 and 24 under the auspices of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, were reviewed with Herb Kellig, vocational school director at a special meeting of the chamber retail division in the chamber offices Wednesday morning. FROSH TOLD THEY OWE SOCIETY DEBT

Wriston Points Out Sacrifices Make Their Attendance at School Possible

"You who have come to college in this period of economic depression owe a deep obligation to society," declared Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college in welcoming the freshmen class at the opening convocation, this morning. "Financial difficulties are keeping more students from college this year than ever before. You who are here must justify the sacrifices which are being made by your parents, in order that you may continue your education."

Pointing to the extreme hazards of college life from the standpoint of academic mortality, President Wriston stated, "According to general averages, only one in four of you will receive degrees. Those of you who fail to graduate may do so because of bad health, financial difficulties, and scholastic failure. Scholastic failure, Mr. Wriston pointed out, is usually a fault of character and not of intellect. Scholastic failure usually indicates a lack of grit."

Registration figures are not available as yet, but advance enrollments indicate that the freshmen class will reach last year's total of more than 250 new students, in spite of the toll taken by economic conditions.

A police car had trailed him into town. At the Grand-ave crossing the light switched to "stop" as he drove up. One of the officers jumped out and arrested him.

Pekota denied the robbery, in which no money was taken. On him officers found one cent and a .38 calibre revolver.

OFFICERS OUTLINE PURPOSE, AIMS OF APPLETON C. OF C.

Rotarians Hear Three Officials Tell About Benefits of Organization

The history, purposes and workings of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce were explained by three officials of the local chamber, H. A. Schlitz, Arthur Geniesse and W. E. Smith, at the Rotary club meeting Tuesday noon at Hotel Northern.

Designating a chamber of commerce as an organization of individuals banded together to do those things to protect and promote the general welfare of the community which can be done collectively more efficiently than by individuals, Mr. Schlitz, president of the local chamber, described the Appleton organization of 400 members representing every line of endeavor in the city.

The original purpose of a chamber of commerce, which incidentally had its origin in 1400 in France, and has had an existence of 150 years in the United States, was to protect commerce in transit, said Mr. Schlitz. Later it grew into an organization to protect market places and promote the sale of goods, and finally it developed regulations to govern trading.

The first consideration of the chamber, said the speaker, is the community as a whole, and next comes service for the members. Community, civic, industrial and commercial matters are considered at meetings held every two weeks.

RETAIL DIVISION

Terming the retail division of the chamber a self-governing, self-supporting body, whose activity is the improvement of the business of the merchant and his relation with the community, Mr. Schlitz stated that though there will never be a time when some local shoppers won't travel to Oshkosh, Green Bay, Milwaukee and Chicago to shop, cooperative sales events, new ideas, and new merchandising wrinkles with adequate, constructive advertising will attract attention to Appleton stores and hold his group of out-of-town buyers to a minimum.

He explained the credit bureau as a service first to the public and second to the merchant. It does not enter into the business of advising whom to trust and whom to refuse credit, he stated, but merely collects actual facts from a disinterested standpoint for the benefit of both the buyer and the merchant.

The civic affairs committee is merely an advisory body, mixing in local, state, and national government only to the extent of securing information, statistics, and results of civic experiments in other cities. Because modern business depends more upon government than formerly the business man, through this division of the chamber of commerce, considers taxation, education, public health, parks, charity, safety campaigns and other municipal affairs.

The two fields of work in industrial promotion, development of the established industry and the acquisition of new enterprises, were explained by the speaker, after describing the smoke stack era when the sole purpose of a chamber of commerce was to go out before breakfast, trace a new industry to its lair and capture it, regardless of importance and suitability to the community.

"It is true that these old-time smokestack hunters who came

Home Furnishings Are Less Costly This Year

With draperies, linens and silver showing a marked reduction, the cost of furnishing a home this fall won't drain the coffers to the extent it did last year.

The cost of silver shows the greatest reduction. Sterling is selling lower this year than it has in the past 20 years, although the cost of plate silver remains about the same. It is reported that certain pieces of sterling can be purchased at the same price as plate silver.

Because of the condition of the cotton market, cotton home furnishings show a radical reduction. Sheets, pillowslips, cotton and rayon bedspreads, towels and novelty linens show a decrease of 20 per cent, while table linens register a reduction of from 5 to 10 per cent. Draperies, both silk and cotton, can be purchased from 10 to 25 per cent cheaper this year.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE BACK FROM CHICAGO MEETING

M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, is expected to return Wednesday evening from Chicago where he has been attending a two-day session of boy scout leaders from Region Seven, at Edgewater Beach hotel. Scout executives from Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois attended the conference. Reports on summer camp activities were given and plans for the winter months discussed.

CATLIN'S BOOK NOW AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mark Catlin's book, "Fly-fishing for Trout," has been placed on the shelves of the Appleton public library. As "Mark" knows his dailies, he knows his trout fishing and the book is a comprehensive account of fly-fishing and all its ramifications. A copy of the book was sent to President Hoover by Mr. Catlin.

A set of German books, fiction and non-fiction, also has been received at the library.

Aiding manufacturers in securing new sites at reasonable prices, getting adequate fire protection, convenient truckage and switching, water and power, obtaining parks and playgrounds for their employees, and keeping streets and roads running to their plants properly paved were listed by Mr. Schlitz as other services given by the chamber to industrial organizations.

Mr. Geniesse told of some of the accomplishments of the retail trade division, such as its promotion of the historical farm festival last year, and its cooperation in the county music festival, dollar day sales, spring and fall openings, problems of parking, etc.

Mr. Smith explained the work of the rural affairs committee in connection with the relocation of the stock yards, stating that a meeting is being arranged at which the matter will be thrashed out of the satisfaction of Appleton citizens and farmers.

Census Shows Fewer Farms In Outagamie-co

DECREASE IS 7.7 PER CENT IN 10 YEARS

Decrease in State Was 3.8 Per Cent for Same Period Census Report Says

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)
Washington—The number of farms in Outagamie-co dropped from 3,746 in 1920 to 3,458 in 1930, a decrease of 7.7 per cent, according to the preliminary report of the Bureau of the Census.

In Wisconsin as a whole, the decrease was 3.8 per cent, the total number of farms in Wisconsin being 382,028 on April 1, 1930, as against 398,295 on Jan. 1, 1920. The decrease in the five-year period from 1925 to 1930 for the state as a whole was 5.3 per cent, with farms decreasing from 383,155 in 1925 to the 382,028 of 1930.

Between Jan. 1, 1925 and April 1, 1930, the number of farms in Outagamie-co had dropped from 3,829 to 3,458, a decrease of 9.7 per cent.

In neighboring counties, all of which showed decreases, the farm census reveals the following figures:

Brown, 3,077 farms in 1930, as against 3,401 in 1925 a decrease of 9.5 per cent and 3,498 in 1930, a decrease of 12 per cent between 1925 and 1930.

Calumet, 2,027 farms in 1930, as compared with 2,090 in 1925, a decrease of 3 per cent and 2,087 in 1930, a decrease of 3.9 per cent.

Winnebago, 2,582 farms in 1930 as against 2,705 in 1925, a decrease of 4.5 per cent and 2,711 in 1930, a decrease of 4.5 per cent in 10 years.

Waupaca, 3,483 farms in 1930, as against 3,560 in 1925, a decrease of 2.1 per cent and 3,770 in 1930, a decrease of 7.6 per cent in the decade.

Shawano, 3,740 farms in 1930, compared with 3,891 in 1925, a decrease of 3.9 per cent and 3,977 in 1930, a decrease of 6 per cent between 1925 and 1930.

Lincoln, 2,782 farms on April 1, 1930, as against 3,111 in 1925, a decrease of 10.6 per cent and 3,114 in 1930, a decrease of 10.7 per cent between 1925 and 1930.

Waushara, 2,136 farms in 1930, as against 2,374 in 1925, a decrease of 7.9 per cent and 2,468 in 1930, a decrease of 11.4 per cent during 10 years.

For census purposes, a farm includes all the land which is directly or indirectly owned or controlled by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household, for hired employees. When a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers, or managers, the land operated by each is considered a farm. Any tract of land of less than 3 acres used for agricultural purposes, which produced products to the value of $250 in the preceding calendar year, is classed a farm.

The Census bureau will make public statistics gathered during the 1930 census showing the farm acreage in each county in Wisconsin, the number operated by owners, the number operated by managers, the number operated by tenants, the number operated by white farmers and the number operated by colored farmers. It will also announce the number of farms of each size group in each county and the value of land, buildings, implements and machinery, the acreage of cropland and pasture land and woodland and so on.

Seventeen Wisconsin counties showed increases in the number of farms in the decade from 1920 to 1930, while only nine showed increases in the five-year period from 1925 to 1930.

The greatest increase in the number of farms was shown in Iron county, which had 547 farms in 1930, an increase of 54.1 per cent over the 1920 figure of 355 farms.

The greatest decrease, logically enough, was shown by Milwaukee county, which had 1,763 farms left in 1930 as against 2,574 in 1920, a decrease of 31.5 per cent. The greatest increase in the last five years was shown by Oneida county, which had 3.4 per cent more farms in 1930 than in 1925, the total now being 770 farms.

SAME INCREASES
The Badger counties in which the number of farms increased between 1920 and 1930 were: Bayfield, 8.2 per cent; Chippewa, 0.5 per cent; Douglas, 2.5 per cent; Florence, 2 per cent; Grant, 1.3 per cent; Green, 2.5 per cent; Iron, 34.1 per cent; La Crosse, 0.8 per cent; Lincoln, 26.7 per cent; Marathon, 4.9 per cent; Oneida, 3.4 per cent; Polk, 2.1 per cent; Price, 3.3 per cent; Rusk, 5.9 per cent; Sawyer, 22.5 per cent; Taylor, 3.2 per cent; Vilas, 3.2 per cent.

Of these, only the following counties showed increases in 1930 as compared with 1925: Chippewa, 1.1 per cent; La Crosse, 3 per cent; Oneida, 3.4 per cent. In addition, the following counties which showed decreases in the decade showed increases for the latter half of the decade (1925-30): Barron, 0.5 per cent; Fond du Lac, 0.8 per cent; Iowa, 2.7 per cent; Juneau, 0.1 per cent; Richland, 0.4 per cent; St. Croix, 0.8 per cent.

SEEK MORE JURORS FOR DAMAGE SUIT

Case Against John Griesbach, Mackville, Postponed to Thursday

The suit started by William Riese, Black Creek, and his son, Gordon, 17 years old, for alleged injuries to the youth's eyes as a result of drinking poison moonshine, allegedly purchased from John Griesbach, Mackville soft drink pedler operator, was continued to 9 o'clock Thursday morning when the jury list failed to produce enough jurors to try the case.

It is charged the Riese boy and two others visited Griesbach's place in September, 1929, and purchased a pint of alleged liquor. Riese is said to have taken the first drink and swallowed poison which had come to the top. The other boys also drank from the bottle. Gordon Riese is suing for $10,000 and his father for $5,000.

The next day Riese complained about his eyes and was taken to an Appleton specialist where immediate blindness was averted after long treatment. However, it is said blindness may occur at any time.

WEATHERMAN INSISTS SHOWERS ARE COMING

The weatherman insists that wet weather is due to prevail here this week, according to his predictions for the next 24 hours.

A similar forecast was issued Tuesday. Showers with a drop in the mercury are predicted for this vicinity Wednesday night and Thursday.

Similar predictions have been circulated throughout the middlewest.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday morning the mercury registered 48 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 72 degrees above zero.

REYNOLDS SAID STATE POLICE ARE EXPENSIVE

Milwaukee—(AP)—A state police system as proposed by the governor would bring Wisconsin near bankruptcy, Attorney General John Reynolds said in a campaign speech here today.

"Gov. Kohler is in favor of a constabulary," the speaker said. "He wants a spy system of mounted police. He would give more jobs to office holders."

"In Rhode Island, a state not much larger than a single Wisconsin county, the state police department cost $185,535 for 1929."

"The spy-system of police will become the bludgeon by which labor unions will be driven into submission. It is the autocratic landlord's shield. It will become the heel of a czar to crush the breath and aspirations of freedom."

MAN KILLED, ONE HURT IN DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

Kilbourn—(AP)—One man was dead today and another injured critically as the result of a dynamite explosion in a rowboat on the Wisconsin river near here.

Richard Bennett, 27, Mauston, was killed and Frank Waldron, Milwaukee, may lose the sight of his eyes.

The occupant of the boat, Edward Henica, Kilbourn, was injured.

Authorities said the three had been fishing several hours yesterday without hooking any fish and that Bennett suggested blasting with dynamite to bring them to the surface.

Henica said the dynamite exploded prematurely.

REIS ASKS REYNOLDS ABOUT SUPREME COURT

Milwaukee—(AP)—Alvin C. Reis, Progressive candidate for attorney general, charged in a radio address last night that Attorney General John W. Reynolds seeks re-election "so that he will have a job to fall back on in case he is defeated for the supreme court or otherwise."

"I challenge John Reynolds now," Reis said, "to answer the question whether he is to answer being a candidate for the supreme court or whether he intends to run again next April or a succeeding April. I demand that John Reynolds answer the people of Wisconsin that question."

Reis said the responsibility for the three-cornered race between himself, Reynolds, and M. J. Eberlein was not his.

"Months ago," Reis said, "I asked Reynolds if he was going to run again for attorney general. His answer was 'no.' He said he was going to run for the supreme court."

COUZENS AND LONG VICTORS IN PRIMARIES

Both Win Nominations for Senate Seats by Comfortable Margins

W. P. Hunt as Democratic candidate for governor to oppose Governor John C. Phillips, Republican incumbent, was conceded today by M. H. McCall, campaign manager for Frank H. Lyman, Hunt's closest competitor in yesterday's primary. With about two-thirds of the state's vote reported, Hunt led Lyman by 4,652 votes.

NOMINATE WEEKS
Montpelier, Vt.—(AP)—Vermont Republicans yesterday nominated Governor John E. Weeks, a dry, to run for congress in the November election and chose Lieutenant Governor Stanley C. Wilson to succeed him as governor. Vermont is a Republican stronghold.

Ernest W. Gibson of Brattleboro was unopposed for renomination to congress by the Republicans in the Second district.

Park H. Pollard, of Cavendish, a cousin of former President Calvin Coolidge, was nominated for governor by the Democrats without opposition. The state party caucus, which nominated Pollard, adopted a wet platform.

Joseph A. McNamara of Burlington, unopposed for nomination to congress by the Democrats in the First district, will oppose Governor Weeks in the November election. James Cosgrove of St. Johnsbury will be the Democratic opponent of Congressman Ernest W. Gibson.

SHAW HOLDS LEAD
Denver, Colo.—(AP)—George H. Shaw, former state chairman, held a substantial lead over William V. Hodges, his opponent for the Republican senatorial nomination, on the face of early returns today from Colorado's primary elections yesterday.

Shaw, supported by Senator Charles A. Waterman, carried 40 of the first 50 counties in which yesterday's vote was tabulated, amassing a total of 29,408 votes in the first 55 counties.

Edward P. Costigan, former member of the tariff commission, led the Democratic field of senatorial aspirants with 7,878 votes in 509 of the state's 1,532 precincts. Morris Shafroth, son of former Senator John P. Shafroth was second with 4,323 and James A. Marsh was third with 2,268.

At the Hodges headquarters it was said returns were "too meager" for a statement.

Colorado's four congressmen sought renomination without primary opposition as did Governor William H. Adams, Democrat. He will meet Robert F. Rockwell, Republican, also unopposed, in the November election.

WINANT WINS PRIMARY
Concord, N. H.—(AP)—John G. Winant of Concord, former governor, is the Republican nominee for governor of New Hampshire. With returns from 25 scattered voting districts missing out of 294, his plurality over Arthur P. Morrill, also of Concord, was 2,948. Dr. Hugh K. Moore of Berlin was third.

The figures for 269 towns and city wards were:

Winant, 24,421
Morrill, 21,473
Moore, 7,716

United States Senator Henry V. Keyes, Republican, was not opposed for renomination. The two Republican representatives in congress, Fletcher Hale and Edward H. Waason, likewise were renominated without opposition.

Albert W. Noone of Peterboro apparently won both Democratic nominations for U. S. Senator and governor although the vote was close in both contests. Returns from 269 districts for governor gave Noone 3,617 and Frederick E. Small, of Rochester, 3,389. In the senatorial contest, 203 districts gave Noone 5,435 and Amos N. Elandin, of Oath, 2,767.

Both Winant and Morrill supported prohibition. Moore advocated its repeal.

JOHNSON IN LEAD
Seattle—(AP)—Congressman Albert Johnson, Republican, chairman of the house immigration committee, took the lead in his race for renomination with a plurality of 1,380 votes over John T. McCutcheon, when returns from 520 precincts out of 673 in the third Washington district were tabulated today. At one time McCutcheon had a lead of about 5,000 votes.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The Women's Missionary society of First English Lutheran church will meet at 2:15 Thursday afternoon at the church. Business pertaining to the fourth annual convention of the Northwestern Wisconsin conference at Oshkosh Sept. 17 will be discussed. The business session will be followed by the educational hour, the study topic to be Claudia, the Woman who Pleaded for Jesus.

Sunday school teachers will meet at 7:15 Thursday evening, and the senior and junior catechetical classes will open at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The sermon subject for the services at 10:30 Sunday morning will be For Whom You Live.

Styles Differ, Even in the Air

Individuality in flying togs as well as in other wearing apparel is one of woman's prerogatives. Three fair pilots snapped at the Chicago air races, who have their own ideas about dress are, left to right: Antoine Strassman of Germany, who goes up in a plane in the same clothes she wears on the street; Betty Lund, who favors "shorts" on torrid days and Gladys O'Donnell, winner of the women's air derby from Long Beach to Chicago, who wears the more standard type of flying clothes.

Believe Fire Has Rid Dump Of Cockroaches

Fire and brimstone cleaned out the center of the nest of cockroaches in the Superior-st dump, but the city is still faced with a problem of disposing of the millions of insects scattered to outlying districts when the heat became too intense and at present are nesting in frightened huddles under every available box, barrel and piece of loose paper around the infested section.

It is thought that it will be necessary to flood the surrounding area with a carbolic acid solution or some insect exterminator, but the fire will have to be subdued before this can be done.

Cracked and torn asunder by the intense heat, the Superior-st roadway looks like the results of an earthquake. With all inflammable material in the dump on fire, the fill has dropped from 20 to 30 feet and is due for a much larger settling before the fire burns out. The flames and huge clouds of smoke of yesterday have simmered down to a steady sizzling fire which is working its way under the entire roadway, with thin screens of smoke exuding from the cracks in the ground.

Cockroach races and a search of the cuffs of trousers legs before departing from the scene are the chief amusements of spectators at the burning dump. One of the pestiferous insects sauntered across the floor of Mayor John Goodland's office Wednesday morning and despite his precautions against transplanting any of them he has concluded that he brought one back to city hall in the cuff of his trousers.

GERMAN DIRIGIBLE LANDS AT MOSCOW

Graf Zeppelin Pays First Official Visit to Soviet Capital

Moscow—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin today paid her first official visit to the Soviet capital. She arrived at noon and was greeted with red flags flying and bands playing proletarian airs. After a brief visit she left for Germany again.

The dirigible, which on her return to the world flight last summer sailed across the entire U. S. S. R. from east to west, appeared over Moscow earlier than expected today. Her progress was speeded by a tail wind during the 27 hour flight from Friedrichshafen.

After circling low over the city and twice dipping over the ancient Kremlin in tribute to the chiefs of the red republic, the Graf came down on October field. About 100,000 holders of special tickets had been waiting for her there since early morning.

A detachment of 250 red soldiers held the dirigible while Dr. Hugo Eckener descended and was greeted by high Russian aid officials. Mass was dropped and more taken aboard.

After an exchange of greetings and courtesies Dr. Eckener climbed on board again. The Graf rose, once more circled over Moscow and settled down for the return flight to Friedrichshafen.

The article, written by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., gives a history of Appleton's lighting system, from the time gas was used until the installation of the light now in use, and presents cost figures and specifications of the new system.

MINISTER OF ITALY LEAVES LEAGUE MEET

Absents Self from Opening Session Without Word of Explanation reports of their progress were called for.

Others, though, conceding that something was behind the official statement, believed that some purely Italian question must have required Grandi's immediate presence in Rome.

A well-informed Italian said this morning that "the naval negotiations are proceeding by means of conversations between experts," but made no claim that they had progressed to the point where, as Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain suggested to the press last night, any public report could be issued.

The French delegation and league officials were obviously surprised, if not seriously disturbed, by Signor Grandi's disappearance from the scene.

CAN'T EXPLAIN ACT
Rome—(AP)—The reasons for the sudden departure from the league assembly session of Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy today were apparently unknown to the Italian foreign office.

Officials at the foreign office not only professed to know nothing of Signor Grandi's intentions but told The Associated Press they did not even know he had left.

It was pointed out that the foreign minister hitherto was only stayed in Geneva for the league council session, leaving Signor Scialoja as head of the Italian delegation during the subsequent assembly.

ASSEMBLY OPENS

Geneva—(AP)—The eleventh assembly of the League of Nations convened here this forenoon. Cesar Zúñiga, of Venezuela, as temporary chairman, opened the meeting.

The assembly began its proceedings with reports on and expressions of sympathy with the populations of Italy and Santo Domingo for loss sustained in the earthquake and hurricane of the past few weeks.

In his opening address the chairman spoke of the great loss to the league in the death of Dr. Gustav Stresemann and Gritjot Nansen. He spoke in high praise of the contributions of these men to world peace and international understanding.

Senor Zúñiga told the assembly that it must admit some failures and disappointments since its last session. He mentioned among these discouraging factors: Lack of hope for progress in disarmament, failure of the tariff truce conference, and conferences on the status of foreigners; addition of import and export prohibition, and for codification of international law "did not completely exhaust their program."

The temporary president also referred to "a certain amount of uneasiness if not anxiety in various parts of the world." His reference was taken to be to the Argentine, China and India.

"We welcome M. Briand's generous plan which points a way toward complete consolidation of European peace and rapprochement," he said. He added that the mere formulation of this plan emphasized progress of the league.

The London naval conference, he asserted, did not accomplish all of its objects, but he hoped "that this would eventually be completed and effected." In conclusion he praised the league's efforts to bring its covenant up to an advanced standard for international dealing set by the Kellogg pact.

The report of the committee on delegates' credentials was then presented to the assembly. It said that 52 delegations were present, Argentina and Honduras being without representation.

TITULESCU IS CHAIRMAN

Succeeded M. Zúñiga, M. Titulescu, of Rumania, as chairman and declared the league now faced questions surpassing in importance any it has dealt with hitherto.

He especially stressed the need of relief for economic depression in the world and urged the assembly to bend its best efforts toward this end.

The assembly then proceeded to organize its committees.

The important and possibly spectacular business of the present session begins tomorrow morning, when Foreign Minister Briand expounds his ideas for "the United States of Europe," or European federal union.

SUFFICIENT FOOD IN SANTO DOMINGO

Relief Ships Also Bring Medicines and Clothing to Stricken Area

Santo Domingo—(AP)—For the first time in a week the populace of this old city today had sufficient food.

A small fleet of relief ships arrived yesterday, and trucks which finally broke through the debris from the interior of the country, brought as much food as was needed to the stricken city.

Relief crews disgorged the food, most of 10,000 or more of the populace had had since the hurricane last Wednesday afternoon blew most of the city away. There was some scrambling in the bread lines at first but when it was realized there was enough food for all this ceased.

The same ships which brought food also brought medicines, shelters, clothing, doctors, and two workmen. It would be difficult to estimate the increase in the morale of the people here as a consequence of the arrivals.

Surgical attention for the injured was greatly aided today with opening of the Roosevelt emergency tent hospital with 1,000 beds. It was stressed that there is no epidemic here but that the hurricane left many surgical cases.

REELT OFFICERS OF PAPER INSTITUTE

All officers of the Institute of Paper Chemistry were reelected at the annual meeting of the board of trustees at Lawrence college Tuesday afternoon, and the two trustees whose terms expire this year, Ernest Mahler of the Kimberly-Clark Corporation and D. The assault was said to have occurred when Fischer, went to visit his children who are living with their mother at the Hilger home. The Fischer's are separated and a divorce action is pending.

G. O. P. PLANS TO ASSAIL RASKOB IN COMING CAMPAIGN

Believe Removal of Huston Opens Way for Republican Attack

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Mr. John J. Raskob is going to be the big issue of the fall election campaigns—if the Republicans have anything to say about it.

The party in power expects to make Mr. Raskob a very effective target. As long as Mr. Huston is the Republican chairman his party wasn't in any position to say anything about the other party's chairman. But now the tide is off and the fun begins. The Republican theory is that if they yell "Raskob" often enough they will save themselves a lot of votes that might otherwise go Democratic.

Mr. Raskob decided after the 1928 election to step into the background and allow Mr. J. P. Shouse, as chairman of the party's executive committee, to take over active direction. Nevertheless, the Shouse job and the Democratic publicity campaign were Mr. Raskob's ideas, and it was Mr. Raskob who produced the money, without which these ideas could never have been realized. The G. O. P. will try to picture Mr. Raskob as the malevolent old Mephistopheles who sits behind the screen and insidiously pulls the strings.

RECALLS OLD BATTLES
The great war of publicity being waged by the two parties takes one back to the pre-Civil War period when political parties kept able journalists as editors of partisan newspapers in Washington to fight their battles for them.

Each party has hired an able newspaperman to fire off its propaganda barrages and recently interest in Washington was heightened as these two gents took to shooting their wads as each other and each other's methods.

The Democratic publicity chief is Charlie Michelson, former correspondent of the New York World, and the Republican publicity chief is Jim West, formerly correspondent for the Associated Press.

More than a year ago Michelson went to work issuing daily releases to the press attacking the Republican administration with every weapon that could be found. These releases came in the form of statements from prominent Democrats in Congress and out. The tariff revision, the economic depression, falling farm prices and various troubles of Mr. Hoover gave Michelson an immense arsenal from which to draw. He kept an able assistant, Bob Gates, constantly busy consulting senators and congressmen about what they were going to say for the morning and afternoon newspapers.

G. O. P. ANNOYED
The Michelson blasts received a surprising amount of newspaper space. They were always well written and pungent, and frequently "hot stuff." It began to annoy the Republicans terribly and a few months ago, after they began to worry about the possibility of losing control in one or both houses of Congress, they hired Jim West.

West's job has been to defend the administration and at the same time to give vent to feverish outbursts of righteous indignation at the nasty attacks from the Michelson press bureau, trying to turn them into proof of Democratic unfitness to rule.

The other day he pushed out a statement by Congressman Will R. Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, charging that the Michelson campaign was an "infamous plot" by Raskob to misrepresent the president and challenge, slander and malign all his acts. Mr. Hoover's high-mindedness, patience

25 YOUNG PEOPLE COMMITTED SUICIDE

Madison—(AP)—Suicide claimed 25 persons in Wisconsin in the age group 20 to 24 years in 1929 as compared to 15 in 1928, the state board of health announced today in listing tuberculosis and accidents as the principal causes of death.

Tuberculosis claimed 192 persons of the 20 to 24 age group in 1929 as compared to 132 in 1928, while 154 died in accidents, 10 more than the previous year. Fifty-five women in this age group died following childbirth, while pneumonia deaths dropped from 55 to 44 in a year. Appendicitis deaths numbered 39 last year and the 20 to 24 year group suffered 53 deaths from heart disease.

WEAR PIN WITH ENGLISH BERETS

Find No Reason for Fad Except That It Looks Very Well

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press New York—(CPA)—In London suburbs and the English countryside, they are wearing their berets with a difference. Directly in the center of the front, they put a little, horizontal, glittering pin. For no reason at all, except that it looks extremely well.

Each of the newest lingerie is made of a combination of plain with figured silk. For instance, plain apple-green silk makes up most of the costume slip and step-in, but green silk bestrewn with tiny pink rosebuds makes the yokes and tailored bands.

Marriage in Paris just now involves yards and yards of white satin bridal train, enough to put a court train quite in the shade. It involves even more yards of lace or tulle veil, arranged half way back on the head like a cap or attached to the back of a medieval coronet and brought under the chin, from ear to ear, in true medieval folds.

and sense of the dignity of his office, it was explained, had endured the effects of this "plot" for 17 months without complaint. Worst of all, it was said that the attacks were "issued in the names of various persons who have shown themselves unwilling to be pawns in such practices."

RETURNED THE FIRE
Next day, Michelson issued a blast by Shouse at the Republican publicity bureau. West was accused of violating journalistic ethics by getting an advance copy of Shouse's last radio speech and preparing a criticism of it by Congressman John Q. Tilson of Connecticut to be distributed among correspondents before the speech was actually delivered—"a violation of confidence and breach of manners." Shouse implied that Tilson had nothing to do with the statement issued in his name, being many miles from a telephone at the time. It appears, however, that West had written the Tilson statement and read it over the telephone to Tilson, who authorized it. Next he sat by the radio at national committee headquarters to be sure that Shouse's actual speech duplicated advance copies and then only proceeded to issue the Tilson statement for morning newspapers.

Nobody denies that both Michelson and West write most of the statements and some of the speeches by prominent party members. Or that the prominent party members are delighted with the system.

What West has to worry about most is the matter of keeping Raskob's name in his publicity. And one of the most important things Michelson has to do is to keep it out of his.

EXPECT RECORD HUNTING SEASON

Open Period on Deer Will Increase Number of Sportsmen

Madison—(AP)—The first step in Wisconsin's 1930 big game hunting season was taken today when the state conservation commission shipped 195,000 hunting licenses to county clerks throughout the state.

The commission also dispatched 26,500 trapping licenses, 200,000 trap tags, 7,000 decoy bands and 59,000 deer tags to the clerks.

Because of the closed season on deer last year, the commission believes that hunters will find more deer this year than for several years. The deer season extends from Dec. 1 to 10, inclusive. Game experts have attributed the increase in deer to the one-buck law, the commission said.

Nimrods get their first taste of 1930 hunting on Sept. 16, primary election day, the opening of the season on ducks, wild geese and coots. On Sept. 17 ducks are protected by law against hunters. The day has been designated as "rest day" for ducks. The season extends to Dec. 20. Sept. 16 marks the opening of the season on plover, snipe, rail and rice hen.

Rabbit hunters may swing into action Nov. 1 for a two-month season. The limit on rabbits is five per day, the commission said.

Trappers will begin Oct. 15, the opening date of the skunk season in southern Wisconsin and Nov. 1 in northern counties. The muskrat season opens Oct. 25 in the Lake Winnebago district and the mink season opens Nov. 15 in all parts of the state. Muskrats are protected throughout the state with the exception of the Lake Winnebago territory.

"KOHLER IS A MAN OF MEANS"

It is seldom an election takes place without a genuine issue but the Progressives propose no real issue in this fight to unseat Mr. Kohler. There are some stories told, some exaggerations, some jokers, some whoppers and now towards the finish there is some hysteria, but there is no material issue. The voter should not be blind however to the obvious attempt of most Progressive speakers, particularly Senator Blaine, to press and keep before the people in one form or another the fact that Mr. Kohler is a man of means, in the evident hope that that part of human nature called envy will substantially affect the election.

The idea is radically wrong. To vote against a man because of his wealth is as wrongful as voting against him because of his poverty. In a strongly centralized monarchy the poor man has no show; in a communist form of government a man of means has no show; the intelligence of a democracy gives both a show. Two examples taken from the history of our own land will amply show what we mean:

(1) The year is 1775. A crisis is at hand, as Tom Paine says: "These are the times that try men's souls." A revolt is growing among the three million scattered people of thirteen colonies against the best armed, organized and most powerful nation on earth. A leader must be chosen, not merely to direct the fierce enthusiasms of Concord and Bunker Hill, but one who can hold the colonies together through all the seven bitter years of heartbreaking war, that can withstand the disaster of Long Island, the loss of the Hudson River forts, the almost hopeless flight through a panicstricken land, the treason of Benedict Arnold and others, one who can by his patience and his perseverance, his hope and his ability, his courage and his fearlessness, still imbue a hungry, ragged army with the spirit to fight and overcome well-fed, thoroughly armed, disciplined, superior numbers. John Adams suggests Washington, a Virginian, ripe with the military experience of the French and Indian wars, careful, cautious, painstaking. But if Mr. Blaine were in that congress here is the way he would speak: "I oppose the appointment of Washington because he is one of the wealthiest men in this country. He has one of the finest plantations in the colonies, consisting of thousands of fertile acres along the Potomac, he lives in one of the largest mansions yet built in the new world, he owns scores of slaves and his income is one of the best this side of the Atlantic." And yet, we know that Washington, the man of wealth, successfully carried the revolution through, angrily spurned the thought of making the new nation into a monarchy with himself as the first king, in fact, was the true, the real democrat. Lucky day for America that Blaine and his kind did not come until after the hard work was done, the work that needed something more than a resonant throat and picturesque gestures.

(2) It is the year 1904. Another serious crisis seems gathering to a point. On one side we have the reactionary, usually a man of wealth who believes that money is supreme and smiles upon the thought of building a feudal system so long as he can occupy one of the places at the top. On the other side we have the muck-rakers of little or no ability, noisy and flamboyant, willing to capitalize their country's ills for their own personal advancement, but without the energy or the capacity to save the day. And in between are the many millions, not knowing exactly what has been taking place but satisfied that something is quite wrong. They have selected many leaders in the past, always to be led to defeat, leaders with pompous manner, lofty gesture, rounded phrases, "crosses of gold" and "crowns of thorns" and many vain promises; but their efforts have always ended in disaster. Somehow or other they sense the necessity for clearheaded leadership, for the ability that can diagnose the case, see what is wrong, know the remedy and steadfastly apply it. The stage is set for Theodore Roosevelt, and with hacking and hammering, with clenched fist and honest heart, with supreme ability and direct manner, that virile man, the original "happy warrior", cast off both muck-rakers and reactionaries and brought the nation out of the night and into the daylight. And yet Theodore Roosevelt was a millionaire!

Walter Kohler has accomplished much in this state in two years but two years is a short time within which to offset or correct the blunders of six years of Blaine. He has saved the people hundreds of thousands of dollars in contracts for public improvements alone; he has tried to reduce taxes for the person of modest means but was checkmated by the Blaine machine in the assembly for the purpose of preventing him from making a better showing to the people. In principle there is no difference between Blaine in Wisconsin sounding the tocsin for class distinction and Heflin in Alabama waving the fiery torch of religious intolerance.

GANGSTERS AT THE HELM

The fine idea of a good man, known as the Marshall Stillman Movement, has gone on the rocks. It was one of the most ambitious efforts to reform criminals and put them in a position, clean and self-supporting, instead of letting them drift back to evil companions and more evil ways. The movement included the setting up of an industrial plant for the manufacture of women's handbags, with all of the management and all of the workers men of criminal records. The management turned out to be faulty, very faulty. Worse than that murder was resorted to three times in order to get men out of positions in the management desired by others. One Sam Sacco, a former holdup man, who was rising rapidly in the employ of the plant was mysteriously done away with. His place was filled by one Moe Howard who had served prison terms totaling twenty-four years and who immediately demanded the principal executive position held by George Hodson who had passed twenty-two years of his life in prison. In order to settle the controversy the two men held a conference which ended when Howard killed Hodson and now the bullet-riddled body of Howard has been found on the street tossed from a speeding taxicab.

The natural result of these crimes with threats of others shot the morale of the entire plant to pieces and so shattered the market for its goods that it ceased to operate profitably.

To jump to the conclusion that little or nothing can be done to keep criminals on the straight path is far from fair because judged in percentages most of the men who went into the plant and were thereby provided with good positions and independence, went straight. But the tiger men, the gangsters, those who would not work but wanted to rule and yet were unable to, perform the work of executives have brought on the crash.

The people who started this movement will not quit. They will renege the plant, as they should, using more caution in the selection of those employed in it. The principal error was turning the movement loose in the hands of convicts alone. Had the direction and management been kept in steadier hands the results would more likely have been favorable.

About New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
London—American in London, if they only knew it, could look upon one of the curious characters of the British capital.

Hannen Swaffer, who got slapped by the American actress, Lillian Foster, is a regular luncheon at the dining room of the Savoy hotel, which seems to be the London equivalent of New York's Algonquin as a rendezvous of the cosmopolitan.

A British companion the other noon pointed out, among others, the Duke of Manchester and Edith Kelly Gould of New York Goulds.

But we were speaking of Hannen Swaffer. As dramatic critic and columnist, he is locally famed for his journalistic crucifixion of actors. He also is one of the town's eccentrics. His long, lean, ascetic face with a perpetual look of tired boredom and his uncut hair flowing back to an old-fashioned high collar, surrounded by an old-fashioned black bow cravat, are as familiar to the habitués of the Savoy as the beard of Bernard Shaw is to the readers of the picture papers.

STARTED GOSSIP
Swaffer, if you failed to hear about it, was slapped in this same dining room by the seemingly furious Miss Foster because he had written an uncomplimentary comment on her voice.

The columnist got the most publicity out of the incident. That is typical of Swaffer. He even sent out as a Christmas card a picture of his face in collision with a woman's hand.

Stopping at our table for a little chat, Swaffer informed us that he was the one who started the gossip columns, without which London newspapers would hardly be complete.

If he did, he has seen gossip writing grow into a distinct branch of British journalism. In spreading small talk, very small talk, Britania rules the waves of hearsay, hands down. Almost every newspaper in the capital has its "I am told" page.

ANONYMOUS
The gossip itself is another matter. The aristocracy and cricket were the mainstays that kept it up at the moment of this writing.

"It is rumored," wrote one Mr. Gossip, "that the Prince of Wales may visit North Berwick at some time during his summer vacation." (Holiday is the British vacation. What the prince was taking a vacation from was not divulged.)

"Many anxious glances will be cast at the skies this morning, more especially after the showers of last night," led off another hear-and-tell-all, "The Dragoman." "Four thousands of people have every intention of attending the devious Test (cricket) match at the Oval."

Bright little bits like that, and some slightly more gossip, are written anonymously over such titles as "Mr. Gossip," "The Dragoman," "Park Lane," "The Rambler" and "Onlooker."

That does not, however, handicap their capital "I" style. Oh, my, no. A count of one day's "I's" showed that the Star man, who does not even sign his column with a pseudonym, was ahead, using the vertical letter 11 times.

But considering what they write, they might just as well come out in the open—unless they are ashamed of the gags, as we call them.

Maybe, heaven knows, then, they have a difficult time filling their columns. Or maybe I'm wrong.

Today's Anniversary

SYDENHAM'S BIRTH
On September 10, 1824, Thomas Sydenham, great English physician, often called "the English Hippocrates" and the founder of modern clinical medicine, was born at Wingfold, England.

Educated at Oxford and Cambridge and at Montpellier, in France, Sydenham started to practice medicine in London when he was about 26. He soon became the foremost physician of his time. In the Civil War he was captain of horse under Cromwell.

Sydenham is especially to be remembered as the one who first differentiated scarlatina and measles, introduced a successful cooling treatment of smallpox, and classified and expounded gout, of which he himself later died. He was the first to place diagnosis on a sound basis and emphasized the importance of observation and bedside experience rather than the traditional theories current at the time.

In his prescriptions he avoided the ridiculous compounds of his time and usually substituted for them vegetable combinations. It was he, too, who introduced the use of tincture of opium—laudanum.

NOURISHING THE DELICATE, FINICKY CHILD

In the first place it is almost impossible to do anything for the child's improvement if the mother or guardian believes and admits in the child's presence that the child is delicate, not strong nervous, or so sensitive. Even if parents cherish such a morbid and moribund notion it is crude and cruel for them to betray their inferiority complex to the child. If your parents or mine are devout adherents of some particular creed or if they believe it is dangerous to get one's feet wet, you and I are pretty certain to follow the same faith or harbor the same morbid vanity unless and until we are convinced it is not true. The child brought up in an atmosphere of pampering and coddling, based on the "delicate" obsession, doesn't get a fair break. Such a child is trained to lead a neurotic life, not a wholesome or happy existence. It seems to me that the most reprehensible and deplorable of all inferiority complexes is this of the delicate child. The child would not develop any such morbid fancy in a normal environment; it is the parents, guardians or elders in the environment that inoculate the unfortunate youngster with the notion.

The daily interests, subsidizing some of our medical and health reformers, have succeeded in putting across the slogan that every child should have a quart of milk a day. For many who accept this as an established principle of good nutrition it is fairly harmless; for many children who are compelled to down the excessive quantity of milk it is very injurious. Some children are much better off without milk at all, or with but a little, and it is a mistake to coax and urge them to drink a large quantity of milk just because the propaganda tells you it is so healthful. If a child dislikes milk, yet eats such foods as fresh vegetables, fresh fruits, fresh eggs cooked to suit the child's preference, it doesn't matter at all if the diet includes no milk.

Where a child has a finicky appetite it is often sufficient to stop all milk for a time, say for three weeks, and the child will immediately begin to eat and demand other desirable foods. Later, if it is not repugnant to the child's taste, some milk, a glass or two a day, may be again included in the diet.

Above all, the elders must betray no concern about the finicky child's appetite, at any time, or at any time. The more the child is coaxed to drink, the greater the antipathy to the food.

It is a fine thing for many such finicky, badly nourished children, to get them away from all parental influence for a time and under some routine care along with other children, where the food is provided and the child eats it or leaves it and no one says anything about the matter. Indeed, this accounts for the steady improvement often shown by such children when they are taken to a hospital.

Next to the chance or the demoralization (if I may use such a term) of the environment, the best thing for these badly nourished children is to get them outdoors. Not to "harden" them, but just to give them a chance to thrive.

Finally, and most difficult of all, from the very nature of the trouble, it is necessary to avoid excessive clothing and overheating of the house where the child lives. In view of the "set" notions of many parents about this, it is almost impossible to give the "delicate" child a fair break.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Teeth and Gums

What to eat in order to have solid teeth and good gums. . . (E. C.)
Answer.—The selection of the diet to build good teeth and gums must begin before you are born. The excellent mother's diet should contain liberal amounts of fresh greens, fresh vegetables, fresh fruits, fresh eggs, fresh milk and cream and butter. She should have a ration of cod liver oil at least thru the winter months. Then after you come along, you must have your ration of cod liver oil from the age of 4 or 5 weeks

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

"THE Tynymites, no doubt, one thing the whole world is reading about," exclaimed the friendly Travel Man. "It is a monstrous place. Full fifty thousand people once could sit and watch athletic stunts. Bold gladiators used to stage most every sort of race."

"And folks had comfort in those days, protected from the strong sun's rays by awnings that spread out like the best things we've seen yet. It's something you will never forget."

"You bet we won't. It's wonderful," said Scouty Tynymite.

And then the whole bunch walked around and every place they stopped they found another sight of interest. They were thrilled as thrilled could be. Soon everyone heard Clowzy shout, "Oh, watch that water fountain out. That is the finest gushing that I ever hope to see."

"Fontana Di Trevi is the name of that spot. It has earned its fame," explained the kindly Travel Man. "There's Neptune, perched up high. It is good luck, the people think, to stop and take a real deep drink. That's what most of the people do before they pass by."

"Then, too, folks stop and drop coins in. This makes the little urchin grin. He promptly goes awing so's to fish the money out."

"That's interesting," Coppy said. "And just like stories I have read, I certainly am pleased to know what it is all about."

Just then a flower boy sauntered by and Clowzy shouted, "Here, lad! I would like to buy a little flower."

"Oh, yes, sir," said the lad. "The Travel Man then bought each one a flower. It was a lot of fun to see the flower boy spread a smile. The sale had made him glad."

(The Tynymites see St. Peter's Dome in the next story.)

Seen And Heard In New York

Mr. Massock, finding so many New Yorkers were touring, decided to investigate foreign capitals briefly. This and several succeeding columns present his discoveries.

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
At Sea En Route to Paris—Sailing the main ship lane between America and Europe has become more of a rest than recreation for the seasonal travelers, who make regular crossings.

Deck stewards tell me that the games, such as shuttleboard, provided for the diversion of passengers are disregarded more and more, except by young and enthusiastic tourists.

The regular voyagers prefer bridge and dancing as their only exercise, passing the rest of the time in their deck chairs, idly watching the waves ripple by.

Tour conductors, escorting organized groups, have found, on the other hand, that their duties are minimized by getting up deck tennis tournaments and the like.

"The main idea," said one on our ship, "is to keep your party too tired to complain."

Just to prove his own impartiality, your correspondent has avoided all exertion, even refraining with no effort at all, from joining in the office singing of "On the Road to Mandalay" by a group of otherwise proper young men who were being very British in white trousers.

COSMOPOLITANS
Shippers on a transatlantic liner, especially at this slack season for eastbound tourist traffic, are a cosmopolitan lot.

There are with us, for instance, a high-class Indian girl, who wears a diamond in her nose and wears jewelry all day in a fine script, an American countess and her three daughters, a German baron, an Italian marquis, an American music critic, an Irish actor, the widow of a famous Jewish philanthropist, the new American ambassador to Italy, John W. Garrett, and a Mr. Edgar Allen Poe.

There also are Japanese, Spaniards and tourists from Greenville, Miss., and Sioux Falls, S. D.

PATRIOTISM
The Irish actor is Dudley Digges, who usually is cast in Russian roles by the Theater Guild.

Digges first came to America in 1904 with a troupe of young Irish singers, dancers and actors, who played at the World's Fair. On the boat one of those ubiquitous concert arrangers arranged a concert, in which the entire troupe of 8 was to furnish the entertainment. When they saw the printed programs, they observed that "God Save the King" was the concluding number.

Each in turn refused to take part unless that number was stricken off. Appalled of their attitude, the officers quickly agreed. There was no motive behind the Irishmen's attitude other than their patriotism. They were surprised, therefore, when upon arrival at New York they were handed copies of a newspaper which headlined: "Irish Patriots Refuse to Sing 'God Save the King.'"

It was a great introductory break for a band of actors. Digges was reminded of it when he saw the printing press on board this ship. He also was reminded that on his first trip he was given the name of Denis Roach, because his real name was not considered Irish enough for a Dublin native.

NAMES AND FACES
He probably knows more names and remembers more faces than any man in the senate. He has a remarkable facility for keeping in mind a man's first name and initials and so greet him when he meets him.

He is one of the best speakers in the senate. He has a natural gift of oratory. His favorite role is that of a defender of the democratic party and its principles, not only on the floors of the house and senate, but as a campaign speaker in states doubtful for the democrats.

In personal appearance he is imposing. Tall, a little heavy set, coal black hair that is inclined to wave, and always immaculately attired, he is one of the most handsome men in the senate.

Now 63 years old, he started out in life as a farm boy. In 1896 he graduated from Baylor university at Waco, Texas, with the degree of bachelor of arts, as well as degrees in oratory and military science. For a while after graduation he worked as a newspaper reporter on what was then the Waco Telephone.

Long before he achieved his senatorial post he had been a consistent winner as a member of the lower house and as a state and county official in Texas.

POPULAR
He was twice elected to the state house of representatives before he voluntarily retired to resume his law practice. He was twice elected a county prosecutor before he again retired voluntarily to practice law. He first came to congress as a member of the house in 1916. He was elected to his seat six times.

In 1928 he entered the race for United States senator and won from a field which included Senator Earle B. Blanton, Representative Thomas L. Blanton, and Col. Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the American Legion.

He is tremendously popular on both sides of the hill where he is known and hailed by all as "Tom." He delights to take time off from his duties as senator, slip over to the house side and renew old friendships.

Concerning those eight boys in Connecticut who returned to their homes with green hair, green eyebrows and green eyelashes after swimming in a dye polluted river, the most exciting Sunday feature editor will have to admit the story has some color.

Reports say that King Carol will be crowned in the spring but fail to mention what with.

ACQUAINT DEALERS WITH ARRANGEMENTS FOR RETAIL MEETING

Institute to Include Discussions on Vital Business Problems

Merchants in Appleton are being made acquainted, through A. J. Geniesse, of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce retail division, with plans underway for the retail conference to be held here on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23 and 24. Meetings will be held at Appleton vocational school, whose facilities have been placed at the disposal of the retailers by Herb Hellig, director. Sponsors of the conference are the chamber of commerce, vocational school and University of Wisconsin Extension division.

The conference discussions are intended to bring expert analysis to bear on vital business problems facing the average retailer. Along with individual conferences by university specialists with store owners and salespeople, the sessions are offered as a means of bringing to the merchants the business-building ideas which the extension division speakers have gathered through wide contacts with progressive merchants.

The extension speakers—F. B. Ellingwood and H. R. Doring, who will conduct the conference, have had practical experience in retailing prior to their teaching experience and come with a thorough understanding of the problems of the store of moderate size, according to Mr. Geniesse.

PRACTICAL VIEWPOINT
The purpose of their talks is to bring a practical point of view to bear on the individual retailer's problems and to make their message directly helpful to merchants and their salespeople.

Mr. Ellingwood acted for several years as merchandising consultant in a leading store service organization. He is a graduate of Northwestern University and received his master's degree at Wisconsin. He is now assistant dean of the extension division and an advisory editor of the Wisconsin Retail Bulletin. He has conducted a number of extension classes in retailing in Wisconsin cities.

Mr. Doring is joint editor of the Wisconsin Retail Bulletin and conducts extension courses in retailing. He has had a varied retail experience in his boyhood he worked behind the counter in his father's store. Following his graduation from the University of Iowa, he took part in the management of general stores in South Dakota and Montana. After graduation from the Harvard Business school in 1924, he was merchandise manager of a large mercantile organization.

HELD MANY MEETS
Conferences of this kind have been held in many Wisconsin cities during the past two years, and have led to requests that they be repeated. Comment from retailers attending is typified according to an extension division summary by a review from a central Wisconsin publication: "Equipped with charts, the University of Wisconsin experts conducting the institute are hitting straight at the merchant, and are giving him the opportunity to modernize his theories of selling."

The two extension division representatives go into detail on every phase of merchandising and retail selling. They will explode old ideas of meeting competition, and present the latest methods of cooperative buying and selling among retail merchants, according to Mr. Geniesse.

Luncheon meetings are being arranged by the Kiwanis and Rotary club on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. Members of the Lions club are cooperating with the other two clubs in sponsoring the luncheons.

Special sessions for salespeople, and other employees of local merchandising institutions are being arranged for the evening hours at the vocational school.

CLAIM 4-H CLUBS AID FARM HEALTH

Madison —(AP)—Dr. W. J. Miller, deputy state health officer, today attributed achievements of the state's 4-H clubs with aiding in the improvement of the physique of farm people in recent years.

He recently examined 168 farm boys and girls and found health scores high with 32 of them scoring above 95. This mark is higher than in recent years, he said.

At the same time, the state board of health announced the death hazard of persons between the ages of 15 and 19 was reduced 22 per cent over 1928. Accidents were the leading cause as against tuberculosis in the previous year.

WHALE BONES INLAND

Raleigh, N. C.—The discovery of two bones of an extinct species of whale in Wayne County, 70 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, gives foundation to the belief that much of North America was under water in the dark ages centuries ago. The bones were in good condition when found and have been placed in the state museum.

There May be Poison in YOUR Bowels!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and briskness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The great difference it will make in your feelings over night will convince you of its merit.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste command it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the largest selling laxative in drugstores everywhere.

Principle is sometimes a thing which unprincipled people with money talk about ecclesiastically.

Cats may have nine lives—but did you ever see one get up after being run over by an automobile?

The voice with a smile wins... except when it grins idiotically. People who talk to themselves should not live in broadcasting stations.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

JULIA GERARD stood in the window, a slender pink linen figure whose dark eyes were laughing ironically, although she managed to curve her lips into a smile that would deceive Jack. Corrinne's more knowing eyes saw the quiver in her lips and the angry way that her hand grasped the pink linen bag.

"An old maid? Just what do you mean, Mrs. Becker?" Julia's throaty, husky voice caught Corrinne's last words and held them.

"Oh, I'm sorry, Mrs. Gerard," Cor-rinne answered lightly, nonchalantly pouring another glass of feed lemonade and offering it to the young woman, who shook her head in refusal. "If you don't want it, I'll drink it. You asked me what I meant. Didn't you? I was just telling Jack of the success you've had in your character role. Not every woman can pretend she is a widow and get away with it. You have to know how. But you did. No one would think that you were Julia Jones, splinter, at all."

Corrinne could see the woman's face quivering in rage. She fully expected that the long tan fingers would make a play for her throat next, but Julia subsided suddenly.

"And why are you so interested in all of this?"

"I always share jokes with my friends," Corrinne rose and jocularly stretched her arms. "I must run along."

Jack's laughter interrupted her. "This is good! The only thing I objected to about you, Julia, was that you had had a husband in the of-fing some time or other. Now that he's gone, I can forget him."

"Of all the..." Corrinne choked down the words that she wanted to say. So this scheming female was putting one over on her, Corrinne Becker? Not if she knew it, she decided! She would get even!

Julia's eyes, openly triumphant, a little mocking, very sure of themselves, met Corrinne's contemptuous stare.

"I was married so very young I've never had to resort to such experiments," Corrinne heard her voice murmuring. "It sounds so fascinating. Tell us what prompted it."

"I invented a husband as a protection barrier to save me from the men I didn't want to be nice to. You know how it is. And this worked a little. But I'm supposed to be playing bridge."

Even Julia's voice was lazy, but her eyes held hidden anger.

"Oh, no, you're not. We're going for a sail," Jack declared.

"Tonight perhaps," Julia promised. "I have bridge, then a dinner engagement and after that..."

Corrinne caught the prophecy in Julia's voice. There was nothing of the splinter about the woman, anyhow. Since she so evidently was in search of a husband why didn't she grab off one, Corrinne pondered, as she left the veranda.

Julia's voice came drifting to her. "Isn't she an amusing child? Of course I am a widow... but someone has invented a spiteful tale and I thought I might as well let it go. I hate to compete with gossip. But you needn't mind that, Jack. It was so long ago..."

Corrinne shook her firm white fists. "Oh, doesn't he? Just you wait, Miss Julia Jones... I'll win out yet. In fact, I have an idea this minute!"

Our Children

TEACHERS' RESPONSIBILITY
Parents can furnish a fine school building and equip it well. They send their children to school regularly in the hope that they will grow in grace and intelligence. They do little more than that because the child crosses the threshold of the classroom he is in the hands of the teacher. The responsibility for the child's welfare becomes the teacher's responsibility.

That means that whatever the child does while in the classroom related to the teacher's influence. He is a disorderly, lazy, inattentive pupil the teacher should feel deeply concerned. The situation must be analyzed carefully, no point slurred over, so that cause of the difficulty may be disclosed and whatever possible done for the child's good.

That kind of responsibility carries the teacher far afield. The home background may stimulate a child to his best effort or it may kill all that is essential for his growth. The child's health may be bad. His attitude toward school set wrong. It may be that he is graded too low or too high. It may even be that he is one of those tragic little figures doomed to inefficiency in book work all his life. Whatever the cause the teacher must find it. If the teacher is beyond her powers she must call on those who can help for assistance. To mark a card and mail a report is to do precisely nothing as far as the child's growth is concerned.

Adolescent boys and girls are very young. But life is pressing very hard on them and they are bewildered and confused and helpless. They defend themselves by mistaken methods. They strike back with a sharp tongue. They are given to moods and tempers and abrupt change. They fall often and are as torn in the flesh. The unimpaired teacher opens the door and says, "Out. School is no place for such as you."

Then where is the place? It is written that a child shall attend school until he is of a well advanced age. Nobody dare employ him without school certification. The street corners are his only resource and it takes a hidebound spirit to send a child there.

When a child fails for any apparent reason to reach classroom standards, it is the duty of the teachers to lay bare the cause and apply the remedy. And by teachers I mean everybody whose lifework is within the schools: classroom teachers, specialists, principals, superintendents, social service staff, medical and nursing staff, attendance bureau and probation officers, the school psychologist and the vocational guidance leader—everybody allied with the school has a teacher's responsibility to the failing child.

When one fails, when the school turns him out and after long months the courts claim their penalties, the burden of responsibility must rest on the school UNLESS it has left no possible way untried. School is to sustain and strengthen and help, not to discard children.

BADGER FARMERS TO PLANT LESS GRAIN

Madison—(AP)—Although the country as a whole is expected to see an increase of 1.3 per cent in fall seedings of winter rye for grain, Wisconsin farmers will plant nine per cent less than last year, Walter H. Ebling, agricultural statistician and his assistant S. J. Gilbert reported today.

While less rye will go into the soil this year, about 10 per cent more winter wheat will be sown, the statisticians said. Present plans call for about 48,000 acres of winter wheat and 192,000 acres of rye. This year's winter wheat acreage will be the smallest since records have been kept, with the exception of 1928 and 1929.

The 1931 rye crop, under present plans, will be the smallest since 1900 with the exception of 1928 when only 107,000 acres were planted.

For the United States, seedings of winter wheat this fall will be 41,892,000 acres, 4.5 per cent less than the 1929 seedings and the lowest since 1923. The present is the third consecutive year of decrease since the peak year 1927 when farmers sowed 49,000,000 acres. An increase of 1.3 per cent in fall seedings of winter rye for grain over seedings in the fall of 1929 is reported by crop correspondents for the United States. This would result in a total planting of 3,882,000 acres. The seven-year average planting intention is 4,411,000 acres the statisticians said.

BUILDING PERMITS DROPPED LAST WEEK

Building permits issued last week by John N. Welland, building inspector, fell over $20,000 below the total of those granted during the same week of 1929, records in the engineer's office reveal. The total for last week was $10,475, against $31,700 in 1929. The large difference was due in a great part to the issuance of a permit on Sept. 6, 1929, to the Riverside Fiber and Paper company for a new warehouse valued at $16,000.

FINE CALUMET - CO MAN $75 ON CHARGE OF SPEARING FISH

Vitor Luedeke Pleads Guilty After Court Ruling Favoring State

Neenah — After hearing arguments of counsel in the case of the state against Vitor Luedeke, Calumet-co resident charged with violation of the fishing laws, Circuit Judge Beglinger, ruled in favor of the state and the defendant changed a plea of not guilty to one of guilty in court at Oshkosh yesterday.

The judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $75 and costs for spearing fish. If he does not pay the fine, he must serve 90 days in jail. The fine is higher than that assessed by Justice Chris Jensen of Neenah, following a trial in Justice court. District Attorney Keefe called attention of the court to a prior conviction of the defendant.

The case is of more than ordinary interest because of the numerous complications which have arisen. It was revealed that Luedeke had commenced a $5,000 damage suits against Justice Jensen and the conservation wardens.

Testimony showed William and Vitor Luedeke were originally taken before Justice Jensen in a prior prosecution charging the same offense. An affidavit of prejudicial was filed and the case taken before another justice of the peace, who dismissed the case because of a fault in the form of the complaint. When the defendants were rearrested they were again taken before Judge Jensen. This time they entered pleas of not guilty, and when another change of venue was sought by Attorney Hume of Chilton the application was denied because the law provides that application must be filed before a plea is entered. It was argued by Attorney Hume, that the constitutional rights of his client had been violated and that he had been unable to obtain fair trial. Attorney Keefe held that the right to a change of venue is purely statutory and not constitutional, and the judge upheld the state.

CLAIMED ERROR

The defense counsel also argues that the Neenah justice court had no jurisdiction, and that consequently Judge Beglinger had no jurisdiction. He pointed out that Calumet-co was mentioned in the complaint with the words "at Lake Winnebago" instead of "on Lake Winnebago."

The district attorney pointed out that any county bordering upon the lake has jurisdiction over any offenses that occur on the lake and defend the technicality over the meaning of one word could not destroy the validity of the proceedings, especially since the record of testimony clearly showed the offense to have been committed on the lake. The court also upheld the state in this contention. The record showed that testimony taken before Justice Jensen, was that William Luedeke rowed the boat while his brother used the spear. The case against William was dismissed, but Judge Beglinger took occasion to remark that if there ever was a case of a joint offense, here was one in that instance, and declared he did not believe anyone should have any complaint to make if William Luedeke also had been convicted.

The appeal from the justice court decision was taken to municipal court, where Mr. Hume obtained a change of venue to Circuit court.

COMMISSION BUYS MORE SNOW FENCE

Neenah—An additional 10,000 feet of snow fencing has been purchased by the Winnebago-co highway commission for use along roads this winter. A bid of the Wheeler-Arnold company, Wittenberg, for one carload of the fencing was accepted by the commission Monday afternoon at a meeting held at the county court house. The bid was for $52.25 for 100 feet and was lowest of seven bids submitted.

The county now has approximately seven miles of snow fencing which will be divided and placed in various sections of the county. It will be used at points where it is known there were drifts in other years.

Crews of the highway commission have less than two miles of concrete still to do on county trunk G, between Highways 41 and 110.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS RECORD ENROLLMENT

Neenah—The total number of pupils now attending high school is 528, of which 229 are boys and the remaining 299 are girls, according to a report by Superintendent C. F. Hedges. This is the largest high school attendance on record. There are 181 freshmen, of which 81 are boys and 100 are girls; in the sophomore class there are 135 pupils, of which 66 are boys and 69 are girls; in the junior class, the total is 121, of which 61 are boys and 60 are girls. The senior class, with a total of 87, is much smaller than last year when more than 100 graduated in June. In this class there are 41 boys and 46 girls. The complete list shows there are 50 more girls this year than boys.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER FALL STREET REPAIRS

Neenah—A special meeting of the city council has been called for Monday evening for the purpose of discussing the advisability of purchasing stone for repairing several streets before the cold weather sets in. The city formerly used cinders in making these repairs but at a recent meeting of the council it was decided to use stone. The street committee will submit a report on streets where repairs are needed.

DRIVER IS FINED $100, COSTS FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Neenah—Joseph Sokup paid a fine of $100 and costs Wednesday morning to Justice George Harnes in whose court he pleaded guilty of operating his car while in an intoxicated condition. Besides the fine he was sentenced to serve 10 days in the Winnebago-co jail but the sentence was suspended upon promise of good behavior.

BOARD CONSIDERS MILK ORDINANCE

Neenah — Discussion of a new milk ordinance as advised by the state, was the business before the meeting of the board of health held Tuesday evening at the city hall.

The new ordinance would regulate quality of milk and its handling by the several dealers in the city. The city attorney will be asked to draw such an ordinance and present it to the board, and if necessary, it will be presented to the council for adoption.

Garbage disposal was discussed and an effort in to be made to have residents dispose of all garbage through some collecting source. Dr. N. M. Pitz, city health officer, reported that there are but three contagious disease cases in the city, one case of measles and two of mumps, and in all cases the patients will be released from quarantine next week. The report of the city nurse as to work accomplished this season at the fresh air camp where 18 children received the benefits of the open air living, was presented. The report showed a gain in health conditions and weight of all the children at the camp. The nurse will now turn her attentions to the schools.

RUSH FOR HUNTING LICENSES STARTS

Neenah—With but five days remaining before opening of the duck hunting season, the rush for the required hunting license and equipment is now on. A total of 5,000 hunting licenses were secured by George Manuel, Winnebago-co clerk, for the hunters of this county, but from the large number of applications already made, it is possible an extra lot will have to be secured from the state. Several places have been designated in Neenah by the county clerk where licenses can be secured. A large number of deer tags have already been sold.

PLAN TO BLAST TO SECURE MORE WATER

Neenah—Dynamiting the bottom of the new well drilled at the water works station, for the purpose of getting a better flow of water, will be started Wednesday afternoon, according to Frank E. The charge of dynamite will be placed near the bottom which will open a larger area and in so doing will open several larger veins, it is expected.

UNIVERSITY STAR TALKS AT MEETING

Kiwanis Club Fetes Members of Champion Baseball Team

Neenah—Howard Jersild of Neenah, University of Chicago football star, was the speaker Wednesday noon at the Kiwanis club weekly meeting at which the American Legion - Kiwanis state championship baseball team was the guest. Mr. Jersild reviewed the games in which he had played during his college life under direction of Coach Stagg, and of the will power required, hard work, and strict training rules which must be kept in order to make a player under this noted coach.

He cited several well known athletes who at first could not make the grade and were bench warmers for several seasons before their ability was recognized. They stuck to the training rules, not knowing if they would ever be called upon to take part in a game. They finally were called, he claimed, and made good. He praised the junior baseball team as being the second best athletic aggregation of Neenah in the past few months to win a state championship. He urged them to go on, work hard and listen to their coach, Joseph Muench, who will again next year endeavor to promote a state championship team. Before adjourning, the team was presented with a silver trophy, a gift from the Kiwanis club.

Manager Says Valley League Team Will Not Meet Little Fox Entry

Menasha — The Neenah-Menasha Falls will not participate in an intra-city series against the Menasha Polish Falcons, local Little Fox league squad, according to Harry Leopold, co-manager of the Fox River Valley league sluggers. Leopold stated that although he and Muench would not sponsor the project, they would allow the use of the club uniforms to the younger members of the squad should they wish to participate in an unofficial series.

Agitation for the three game series between the two teams was started by followers of both squads in this city. The Falcons are a strong aggregation at the peak of a five weeks' winning streak. Whether or not the unofficial series will be played will be decided by players within a few days, it is expected.

GREEN OPPOSES INSURANCE FOR MEN OUT OF WORK

Labor Union Head Throws Wrench in Plans to Have Group Adopt Plan

BY CHESTER M. WRIGHT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Atlantic City, N. J.—By declaring his opposition to compulsory state unemployment insurance, foreshadowing a forthright declaration on the subject by the coming American Federation of Labor convention, President William Green has thrown a full-sized wrench into the machinery of those who within and without the federation have been building up state aid propaganda.

Mr. Green, presiding over the meeting of the executive council here, preparing the annual report, left no back door in his statement of hostility to state unemployment insurance. He called it "paternalistic" and said it led straight to the dole, which he called "demoralizing and destructive."

It is no secret that tremendous pressure has been put upon American Federation of Labor leaders from "the left," within and outside of the labor movement, to have them in to a pro-state insurance program. Speculation now turns to the question of old age pensions.

The convention a year ago adopted a declaration favoring state old age pensions. Observers are wondering whether the opposition to state unemployment insurance will not lead to a reconsideration of the old age pension declaration, both state relief systems and compulsory in character.

SEEKS ALTERNATIVE

President Green's alternative insurance within industry, by agreement between employers and employees, is in accord with the established and fundamental philosophy of the trade union movement.

On the heels of the anti-state insurance avowal, an official delegation representing the United Brewery, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers appeared before the council today and demanded fresh and stronger support of their demand for modification of the Volstead act, putting the demand on the grounds of relief of unemployment as well as of hostility to prohibition. Their assertion that modification permitting 2.75 beer would bring work to three million men commanded attention.

The report to the forthcoming convention, to be held in Boston beginning Oct. 6, in addition to statements on unemployment, unemployment insurance, and prohibition, will declare the injunction to be labor's paramount issue and will recommend additional support for continuation of the campaign of organization in the south.

SEEK UNITY

Every effort will be made to bring about unity of opinion regarding amendments to be offered to the injunction bill supported by Senators Blaine, Walsh of Montana, and Norris, but given an adverse committee report in the last senate session.

As to the southern campaign, there is every indication that it will go in to the convention as a lively issue. President Green has reports showing

POLICEMAN SAVES GIRL FROM DEMENTED YOUTH

Washington — (AP) —

An ironing board and the ingenuity of a rookie policeman late last night saved the life of Annie D. Jennings, 25-year-old nurse after she had spent two hours imprisoned by a crazed suitor. Squads of police stood baffled outside the house of Howard F. Carson, the demented youth, who at the point of a pistol dragged the girl to his upstairs room and threatened to shoot her unless she promised to marry him. Any move to capture him, they feared, would result in instant death for the girl. Carson's parents pleaded with them not to shoot their son through a window—the only solution that appeared.

Finally Patrolman Earl Baker, noticing the short distance between the Carson house and one adjoining, laid an ironing board on the rails of the upstairs porch and tiptoeing across disarmed the youth before he could carry out his threat.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE IS DEAD IN OREGON

that 112 new local unions have been organized but in two of the largest of these trouble impends. Danville, Va., has produced a textile workers union of 4,000 members but the reported discharge of some 1,200 of these makes a strike an immediate possibility. President Green said that the Greensboro, N. C., textile workers union, ranking next to Danville in strength, has been made an object of "persecution," foreshadowing a major conflict there.

Nor has the longshoremen's union of 5,000 new members at New Orleans had a peaceful career thus far if it is fairly obvious that the federation will have to prepare to carry on its campaign in the south in the face of a more determined opposition than marked the first few months of active organization efforts.

TWO AMERICANS ARE RELEASED IN PERU

Third U. S. Citizen Still Being Held on Charge of Attempted Bombing

Lima, Peru.—(AP)—Two Americans arrested by the new Peruvian government headed by Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro after the revolution which ousted President Augusto B. Leguia have been released from custody but a third is being held.

The two released are Charles W. Sutton, charged with mismanagement of irrigation funds during the Leguia administration and J. H. Gildred, another American held pending an audit of his accounts.

Lieutenant Commander Harold E. Grow, United States naval reserve officer who acted as head of the Peruvian air service during the Leguia administration, is still in government custody on charges of attempting to bomb the city of Arequipa and of being a mercenary. He is expected here from Mollendo shortly.

The Arequipa paper, Noticias, published an interview with Lieutenant Commander Grow in which he denied that he intended to bomb Arequipa but dropped only one 25 pound bomb to attract attention of insurgent soldiers to pamphlets he was dropping.

Grow said he preferred that Peru decide his fate without any foreign pressure and that he had asked the diplomatic representative of his country not to intervene.

Fifty Gridders Answer Football Call At High School

VETERANS AMONG SQUAD TURNING OUT FIRST DAY

Al Liethan and Mark Catlin Help Orange Mentor With Proteges

ABOUT 50 high school football aspirants answered the first call for practice Tuesday evening and appeared on the practice field in the Third ward, all excited and anxious to make a showing.

The squad might have been larger but there was no more equipment to be given out and some of the youths still are wearing tennis shoes, oxfords, or old football shoes that can hardly be called a fit.

Looking over the group the first thing noticeable was that at least half of them appear to be husky, capable chaps. But what they know about football, especially those youths coming in from junior high schools remains to be seen.

The veterans who showed up numbered 12 or 14. Foremost among them were Gordon Holtermann, the team's captain, bronzed and hardened from a summer's toil out of doors. Emmett Mortell, in perfect condition after a summer's work and much baseball and softball; Connie Frank, another backfield candidate who was dangerously ill last spring but who now seems to be in perfect health. Other backfield candidates were Jim Neller, rugged and looking forward to a big season and Krohn, a flashy halfback.

Line men who showed up were not as plentiful as backs, considering the number needed. However, they all looked to be in perfect condition and capable of making things tough for other valley teams. Three ends were among the group, Schmieg, Steenis and Hecker. The former two are veterans while the latter should be able to handle the reserve job easily.

Rossmessel and Manier, two guards with some experience also were on deck along with Frogner a tackle, and Peotter, who probably will get a shot at several positions until a regular one is found.

There was plenty of beef among the new men, answering the call, all of them sophomores from the junior high school teams. However, Coach Shields hasn't learned to know them on sight and until they've been cavorting a few more days they probably won't get much attention.

The evening's drill opened with a half hour of kicking and throwing the ball about. Then followed a lengthy grass drill designed to get the backs and crooks out of the collective backbones and to limber up a few muscles.

Coach Shields then divided the squad into backfield men, centers and guards and ends and tackles. Shields took the backs while the ends and tackles were turned over to Mark "Bud" Catlin and the guards and centers over to Al Liethan, the latter two candidates for positions on the University of Wisconsin team this fall.

The backs were sent at a plunging canyons and worked until a couple of the more husky youths plunged right through and wrecked Shields' masterpiece. After that the backs worked on receiving short passes.

Ends, tackles, guards and centers were taught various devices used in line play by Catlin and Liethan. The drills lasted until about 5:30 when the squad was sent home. Unless there are too many aching muscles Wednesday afternoon the gang will again be out to get its second lesson.

National League Race Tightens As Cubs, Cards Lose To Robins, Giants

Grove Hangs Up 26th Victory When Rookie's Homer Beats Tigers

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

THE National league race was tighter than ever today.

After Brooklyn's 3 to 0 triumph over the Cubs and New York's 2 to 1 victory over St. Louis yesterday here is how the four leaders lined up.

	W	L	Pct.	Gms To Be'd	Play
Chicago	80	57	.584	17
St. Louis	77	59	.566	23	18
Brooklyn	78	60	.565	23	16
New York	77	60	.562	3	18

Brooklyn gained a full game on the two teams that are ahead of them, and went into a virtual tie with St. Louis for second place, trailing by only one point.

The Robins' two babes, Phelps and Herman, figured heavily in the victory. Given great support, Phelps limited the Cubs to five hits as he bested Pat Malone in a pitching duel. Herman put the finishing touch on the struggle in the eighth inning when he slammed the ball into the left field bleachers for his thirty-first home run and the last two runs of the game. The other run was scored in the first, with Frederick's triple as the starting point. Gilbert did the scoring, getting to second when Frederick was run down between

REVOLTA, BIRD TIE FOR STATE OPEN GOLF TITLE

Milwaukeean Misses Four Foot Putt on 18th; Vitense Gets 309

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—Tied for first place with 283 after four rounds in the state open golf tournament at the Tuckaway course, Johnny Revolta, 19-year-old professional from Portage and Johnny Bird, defending champion from Tuckaway, today were paired for 18 holes to decide the championship.

Totalling 295, Henry Dettlaff, Oshkosh pro, placed third. Jack Cattell, Big Foot pro, and Kully Schlicht, professional from Westmoreland, followed with 296 each.

Yesterday, in the morning round, Revolta shot a sensational 63 for the first below par score of the meet. Bird made a 72.

In the fourth round, Bird stroked the first nine in 32, three under par. Revolta took the nine one under. On the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth holes, Bird missed opportunities that might have landed him his second straight title. He three-putted the sixteenth to take a 5 to Revolta's 4. At the seventeenth, with Revolta's drive caught in the trap and Bir. on the green, the Portage youth pitched close to the cup and was down in 4 and Bird took four putts.

They both found the rough off the eighteenth. Revolta played out safely. Bird took a high iron over the trees to the right of the green. He was in on 8 and Revolta on 4. Revolta missed his putt and went down in 6. A four-foot putt—and the title was Bird's. He missed it, sinking in 5 to tie.

Singer Not Impressive In His Latest Workouts

BY WILBUR WOOD Copyright 1930

DELAWARE WATER GAP, PA.—(CPA)—Al Singer devoted himself yesterday in his last two sparring sessions to putting the final polish on his boxing. Some rough spots cropped out in Sunday's drill. It was a muggy afternoon, with a drizzle of rain spattering down on the crowd that clustered around the ring, and some of that atmospheric mugginess crept into the work of the boy who is to step in with Jimmy McLarrin at the Yankee Stadium Thursday night. Singer was just a small fraction too slow in executing some of his tricky maneuvers. Perhaps it was more because of the presence of a horde of relatives. In following the training activities of young Alford since he became prominent enough to rate a training camp in the country the writer has noticed that on those days when the third and home and tallying on an infield out and Wright's single.

The Giants and St. Louis went seven innings before either team could score against the experienced hurling of Clarence Mitchell and Murliehl Grimes. In the first six frames the two veterans allowed only seven hits between them.

GRIMES VS. MITCHELL

The Cards scored first when two singles and a sacrifice gave them a run in the first half of the seventh, but the Giants got to Grimes for a single and a double to open their half of the frame and scored twice on a pair of hits to the infield.

Cincinnati's latest losing streak went to six games as the Phillies defeated the Reds, 8 to 6. Frank O'Doul, acting as a pinch hitter, clouted a home run with two on base in the sixth to tie the score and two more runs off Larry Benton in the eighth won out for Philadelphia.

The American league race remained unchanged although Washington's Senators had a long, hard struggle to keep from losing ground. It was not until the twelfth inning that the Senators put on one of their characteristic rallies, scoring five runs to defeat St. Louis, 8 to 4.

The league leading Philadelphia Athletics had their troubles in Detroit and came out on the long end of a 3 to 1 score only through the efforts of their slugging recruit outfielder, Jim Moore, who broke up the left field bleachers for his thirty-first home run with his second home run in the two weeks or less he has been with the A's. The victory was Grove's twenty-sixth.

The New York Yankees clung to their slim chance of overtaking the A's by combining some of their 16 hits with gifts from Cleveland pitchers to defeat the Indians, 8 to 6. Five hit-batsmen were among the features of the game, which was notable principally for its poor pitching.

Chicago White Sox combined hits, with a five hit pitching job by Pat Carraway to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 1.

TILDEN, ROGERS IN TENNIS TOURNAY

Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison Survive in Same Bracket

Forest Hills, N. Y.—(AP)—Bill Tilden, the spryest lame man who ever cavorted about a court, stood today in the fourth round of the national tennis singles the six foot, seven inches figure of the biggest player in the game looming dead ahead.

Lytleton Rogers, gigantic Irish Davis cup ace, was the man disputing Tilden's progress but the lanky Philadelphian looked forward to the match with the smiling confidence that has characterized his demeanor since the start of the tournament.

Rogers beat Young Ellisworth Vines of Pasadena yesterday, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, and Tilden looked even better in moving down Ed Febleman of New York, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0.

Johnny Van Ryn and Johnny Doe still survive in Tilden's half of the draw. Both of these young players gave Big Bill a hard fight in last year's tournament and indications now are that Tilden will have to meet Van Ryn in the quarter finals, Doe in the semi-finals and Wilmer Allison in the final.

There were two reasons for the curtailment of his exhibition. One was his thought that maybe he was getting a little too light. He had sealed only 1342 after Saturday's session. When he finished Sunday he was a bit under 125, which was just about right for that period in his training. He wants to get in with McLarrin weighing as much as he can without forfeiting any of his speed.

Another reason for calling an early halt was the fact that Singer stopped so many punches with his forearms and biceps that his arms tired a

JOHN ROACH IS SIGNED TO PLAY WITH OSHKOSH "11"

Former Notre Dame Player Will Perform Against Packers Sunday

OSHKOSH, Wis.—The Chicago Bears have been signed to play against the All-Stars on Saturday, Sept. 20. Manager Darling tried to book the Chicago club for the Sunday date but the Bear management refused as the squad is to be taken to Green Bay to see the Cardinals and Packers clash in a National league game on Sept. 21.

BULLETIN

Oshkosh, Wis.—The Oshkosh football team invades Green Bay Sunday to tackle the Packers and, from the talk heard in Winnebago county, it seems as if everybody is going to the game.

The word has been passed around that Oshkosh has a surprise in store for the National league champions. Over the week-end a lot of huskies have arrived in town and some two dozen gridders have been working

JOE KRESKY SIGNED

Joe Kresky, former University of Wisconsin guard, has been signed to play with the Packers, it was announced today by E. L. Lambeau, coach and manager. Kresky was a star at Marinette before going to the University of Wisconsin, playing against East and West High school teams a few years ago. He weighs close to the 200-pound mark and last year played with the Ashland, Ky. professional eleven. He was expected to report today. Cal Hubbard and Tom Nash, veterans of the 1929 team, are due late this week. Nash has been playing baseball, while Hubbard has been an umpire during the summer months.

out twice daily at the fair grounds under the direction of Earl Britton, who is coaching the squad. Howard Hancock of the Oshkosh Normal school is giving a hand at every opportunity, although his own team keeps him busy.

About 24 players will be taken to Green Bay for the game. Included in the list are a number of topnotch gridders. Oshkosh boasts a corking good set of backs. For quarter, there is Red Martin, of Ripon, Phil Klemz of Pennsylvania and O'Keefe, Marquette flash of a few years ago.

ROACH AT HALFBACK

Three fullbacks are in the fold. Earl Britton of Illinois is a veteran pro player, having played with Dayton, Chicago Cards and Philadelphia. Ben Griewski played at Michigan in 1924 while Ralph Curtiss has been heralded as the best fullback ever developed at Oshkosh Normal.

The halfbacks are headed by Johnny Roach, Appleton, a product of Knute Rockne's school. Nason was a flash at Lawrence while Giebel performed at Miami while Cub Buck was coaching the Florida college. Stimp, who starred at La Crosse Normal, is a first class open field runner.

Three centers are under contract. Rose and Strezyewski both played varsity ball at Ripon while Bill Hermon certainly the Cincinnati "U" team two years ago. His home is in Manitowish.

Five guards are under contract. Budd Laabs, of Ripon, is going to be used as a center, flanked by Rube Schipper, Oshkosh lighththead pugilist; Caille of Wabash; Brennan of Oshkosh Teachers and Bloomquist from Lake Forest. None of these guards go less than 200 pounds.

DRAFTZ ON TEAM

The tackles look pretty good. Hauser was a star at Ripon while Hall, assistant coach of the Oshkosh Teachers, has quite a reputation. There is also "Dauber" Draftz of Oconto. The big fellow hasn't any college degree but he is a real player. In practice he has been outkicking Britton. Dunham, 240 pounder, who played one year with the Canton Bulldogs, is the fourth tackle.

Oshkosh has signed five ends. Bizer of Ripon, who played with Buffalo last fall in the National league, and Hank Jensen, Oshkosh Teachers, will probably start the game. Both are 200 pounds. The other wingmen are: Ladwig of Ripon; George Hotchkiss of Wisconsin and Clarence Bredendich, a graduate of Oshkosh Normal.

When the Oshkosh team steps out on the field at Green Bay next Sunday, the players will be togged in brand new red and white uniforms. The Oshkosh management has purchased the best possible gridiron equipment.

Lefty Grove Has Won From Boston Six Times

BY JOHN B. FOSTER Copyright 1930

NEW YORK—(CPA)—If the salary of Lefty Grove of the Athletics were gilded by a bonus and the bonus was dependent upon winning 25 games this year, he would have picked up more than a fifth of it on the Boston club alone and on the Philadelphia ground. Also he would have won his bonus by getting credit for his sixth victory over Boston on Saturday.

Suppose that Grove were to get an added $5,000 if he won 25 games at his team. Having won six games at Pittsburgh, where baseball speculation always was heavy because there was no racing near the city.

Many a pitcher was followed when he knew nothing about it and now and then a pitcher would suspect something and there would be a great row with the owner of his club. It is fair to the players to say that not one instance of dishonesty was unearthed against a pitcher, but some of them were told they had better keep away from certain men who hung around resorts where ball players occasionally went.

The race between Grove and Earnshaw has been keen on the Athletics. On the whole Earnshaw will get more appreciation from the fans because they will think his victories have been harder earned than Grove's six triumphs over Boston. The latter has been pie for Grove since he has been pitching. Earnshaw has won four games from Boston so between these pitchers the Athletics have won ten games from one club toward a pennant in 1930 and it is on these pitchers that the Athletics will rely when they play in the next world series. There will be no Howard Ehmke to confound everybody including himself. Yet there may be another like him because baseball is such a whimsical affair from its human nature standpoint and each world series has its sensation.

BEAT ALL WESTERN CLUBS

Grove lost games in Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit. One each in each city. That isn't so bad considering that he is not likely to make his appearance at the most more than three times in each western city. He has beaten Cleveland once in Cleveland, beaten Chicago, and defeated Detroit and St. Louis twice, each in the west.

If a man who had a speculative side had begun to make wagers on the success of Grove at the beginning of the season he would have accumulated quite a lot by this time because of the success of the big left hander. In the days of blackboard pools in saloons when there were corner liquidators there were separate bets on pitchers and fans

COLONELS HOLD FOUR GAME LEAD IN ASSOCIATION

Only Complete Nose Dive Can Beat Kentuckians Out of Flag

CHICAGO—(CP)—Nothing short of one of the grandest nose dives in Uncle Tom Hickey's record books can stop the Louisville Colonels from galloping away with the American Association pennant now.

Today, with the current campaign fast fading into history, they bounded along with a four game lead over their only rivals in the flag chase, St. Paul. Each had 11 games to play before the conclusion of the campaign, Sept. 21, even to tie the race. In a little while the Saints must win every game while the Colonels win seven out of 11.

Louisville picked up a half game on the Saints yesterday, defeating Columbus, 10 to 6, while the Saints and other clubs loafed or studied batting averages. The Colonels hopped on Percy Lee Jones, a recent National league cast-off, for four runs in the first inning, but Joe Deberry was unable to hold the lead and the old reliable Ben Tincup, stepped in with another one of his relief performances and saved the game.

Today was an off day on the schedule with all teams getting rest for the final drive.

GREAT LAKES BOATS WILL HOLD RACES

Chicago—(AP)—Gossoon, a four-year old craft originally built for navy secretary Charles Francis Adams, stood out as the favorite entry in Biennial R. class division great lakes boat race today. Three races, each over a 14 mile course, will decide the championship.

The Gossoon is a representative of Lake Erie. The first race was scheduled for today.

OUR NEW MENTORS DIRECTING SPORTS IN F. V. CONFERENCE

Aspects for Grid Season
Are Reported Bright in Most Schools

OUR new coaches will have charge of teams this year when the first games in the Valley conference are played Oct. 20. The new mentors are Fritz Albert at Marinette, Sam Hill at Oshkosh, Gordon Winder at Manitowish and Louis Means at East Green Bay.

Albert played fullback under Coach Winder at Illinois. Winder holds a record at the prison city high school, and Means comes from South high school to take over the reins of Chester Wiley, who had successive undefeated teams at Green Bay.

WEST WELL PREPARED
Aspects at most schools are very bright and as a result the race will be close this year. At West Green Bay, Coach E. M. White has wealth of material returning. A pound line from tackle to tackle, West's boast. Zoll and Shaloub, ends, and the 240-pound center, Stens, have returned, with regu-wings in Flaherty and Jacobs. Backfield is not without veteran talent, four returning in Wolf, Willan, De Cleric and Shader. East Green Bay has lost a flock of veterans, but the flashy Becker, Edwin and Sargent in the backfield and Buss, Washaschinsky and Jensen in the line, it has a new foundation. East needs new ends and ends, but will be a contender.

Manitowish should give better competition this year as the Ships have returned in every position. Only Capt. Shorty Gallbraith lost from last year and Coach Winder has a star newcomer in place of Shorty. Kohl, Winder and Capt. Peterson should maintain this season. Appleton, vice, has four returning let men, six of whom are backs. In eight linemen in the fold, prospects at Appleton are above par.

OSHKOSH A CONTENDER
Oshkosh, last year's runnerup, will again be a contender. With saint captain Siebold, Graff, McNeil, MacDonald and Wegner in the line and the shifty Barlow, Ed, Williams and Olson in the backfield, the Sawdust city will have powerful eleven. Former Capt. Nusch and Quarterback Piffan are the veterans whose loss will be felt most.

Marinette again will build around Ed Sorenson, one of the best and gainers in the loop last year. Will be supported by a veteran Jardins, in the backfield and excellent end in former Capt. Gwardt. Nickles, another returningman is back as is Freeman Repath, guards, and Arseth, ter.

Sheboygan will be represented by an entirely new team. Only veterans remain, none of whom are regulars last year. Capt. Rosum, Kilton and Davey in the backfield and Driscoll, end, are let men and the prospects at the City depends upon a hophop forward wall.

NEWCOMERS AID FONDY
Fond du Lac also lost a flock of veterans but coaches are rather optimistic as capable reserves remain an unusually heavy crop of came up from the junior high school. East and West Green Bay, Oshkosh, Appleton and Manitowish look like the main contenders, while Marinette may be a dark horse. As both Fond du Lac and Sheboygan hope for first division teams a real tussle race should result.

Sheboygan and Fond du Lac open Sept. 20 in non-conference games and others will swing into action the following week.

The conference schedule follows:
Sept. 20—Menominee (Mich) at West; Two Rivers at Sheboygan; Waupun at Fond du Lac.

Sept. 27—Kaukauna at West; East at Wausau; Sheboygan at Fond du Lac; Marinette at Appleton; Manitowish at Oshkosh.

Oct. 4—Oshkosh at Sheboygan; West at Appleton; Marinette at Manitowish; Fond du Lac at East.

Oct. 11—Appleton at Fond du Lac; Sheboygan at Marinette; Manitowish at West; East at Oshkosh.

Oct. 17—Fond du Lac at Manitowish; West at Marinette.

Oct. 25—Oshkosh at West; Appleton at Sheboygan; East at Manitowish; Marinette at Fond du Lac.

Nov. 1—Fond du Lac at Oshkosh; Manitowish at Appleton; Marinette at East; Sheboygan at West.

Nov. 8—Oshkosh at Appleton; Menominee at Marinette; East at Sheboygan.

Nov. 15—Sheboygan at Manitowish; Appleton at East; Oshkosh at Marinette; West at Fond du Lac.

Nov. 27—East at West.
*—Non-conference.

40,000 FANS TO SEE
POLO BATTLE TODAY

Yank, British Teams Depend on Lineups That Played Sunday

Westbury, N. Y. —(P)—The Meadow Brook club was a magnet today for 40,000 spectators who desired to see Great Britain and the United States play the second, and perhaps final, game of the 1930 series for the Westchester cup, emblem of international polo supremacy.

The American big four, led by Tommy Hitchcock, needed only to capture today's contest to end the series and retain the cup, held by this country without a break since 1921.

So decisive was the American margin in the opening game on Saturday that the cup defenders have been installed prohibitive favorites to win the series in straight games.

Despite the 10-5 beating they absorbed in the opening assault, the Britons depended upon exactly the same lineup with Gerald Baldwin at No. 1; Lewis L. Lacey, No. 2; Capt. C. T. L. Roark, No. 3; and Lt. Humphrey Guinness, back. The American lineup also was unchanged with Eric Pedley, No. 1; Earle A. S. Hoping, No. 2; Hitchcock, No. 3, and Winston Guest, back.

What the Stars Did Yesterday

Clarence Mitchell, Giants—Held Cardinals to seven hits and beat them, 2-1.

Babe Herman, Robins—Smashed thirty-first homer with one on in eighth to help beat Cubs, 3-0.

Pat Caraway, White Sox—Beat Red Sox, 10-1, with five hit pitching performance.

Earl Combs, Yankees—Drove in four runs with three singles against Indians.

Jim Moore, Athletics—Rookie's homer with one on enabled Athletics to beat Tigers, 3-1.

BIG 4 SURVIVES AT P. G. A. MEET

Diegel, Sarazen, Armour or Farrell Expected to Win Title

Flushing, N. Y. —(P)—The second round of match play in the Professional Golfers' association championship today found all of the leading favorites still in the running and hoping to stay that way.

Pairings for the second 36-hole match play round indicated that on form, at least, the big four in the field, Leo Diegel, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour and Johnny Farrell, should advance to the third round.

Diegel, the defending champion, was matched against Harold Samson of Burlingame, Calif. Sarazen, who had a close call with Charles Schneider of Philadelphia, in the first round yesterday, was pitted against Bob Crowley of Haverhill, Mass. Crowley yesterday defeated Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, 4 and 3. Armour, who rolled up a count of 11 and 10 on Dave Hackney of Lowell, Mass., met his second test in the person of Bob Shave of Cleveland. Farrell, an easy winner over Norman Smith of Yakima, Wash., yesterday, tackled Denny Shute of Columbus, O., today. Shute yesterday defeated Joe Frank, Kenosha, 8 and 6.

Other second round pairings: Al Watrous, Detroit, vs. Charles Lacey, Philadelphia.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, vs. Al Espinosa, Chicago.

Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia, vs. Jack Collins, Dayton, O.

Horton Smith, New York, vs. Laurie Ayton, Evanston, Ill.

THREE EYE TEAMS TO

Danville, Ill. —(P)—Evansville and Danville square off under the arc lights tonight in the first battle of a four or more game series to decide the Three Eye league championship for 1930.

Evansville, winner of the last half of the split season, stood out as a big favorite over Danville, which is a St. Louis Cardinal farm. The Hoosiers have never won a Three Eye league flag while Danville has won but one in 30 years.

CANZONERI BATTLES PETROLLE AT CHICAGO

Chicago —(P)— Tony Canzoneri, Sturdy New York Italian, and Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express who is tooting a comeback, are all ready and confident for the bell that sends them into action in a 10-round charity show at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Canzoneri still ranked as a big favorite today.

Answer—No. One third.

Question—Do you think Young Stribling could beat Max Schmeling?
Answer—Hard to tell. It would be a tough fight.

Question—Were Wausau and Appleton in the Wisconsin-Illinois league at the same time? If so what year?
Answer—The two clubs were in the W. I. league about 1911 and 1912 and perhaps before Wausau's franchise was later given to some Illinois team.

SINGER, M'LARNIN ARE READY FOR GONG

New York —(P)— Their intensive preparations completed, Al Singer and Jimmy McLarnin turned their thoughts toward Broadway today and their ten round duel at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

A decisive swing in sentiment toward Singer caused the betting odds to drop from 2 to 1 to 7 to 5 with McLarnin still on the long end. Prospects were that the battler from Vancouver would be only a little better than an even choice against the lightweight champion at ring time.

Singer's 135 pound crown will not be at stake.

LOW RATE ON U. S. NOTES EVIDENCE OF EASY MONEY

Expect Offerings Forecast Long Period of Lower Rates

BY PRESTON S. KRECKER
Copyright 1936, by Cons. Press
New York.—(C.P.A.)—Treasury financing for September—refunding purposes, as announced by Secretary Mellon, emphasizes the extreme ease of the money market and forecasts a prolonged period of low interest rates. Secretary Mellon offers banks the opportunity to invest their funds in notes to run for twelve months at 2 1/2 per cent. The mere fact that he expects to sell notes yielding such a low rate of return carries the implication that he thinks interest rates will remain low for the ensuing year.

The rate is somewhat lower than Wall Street bankers had expected even in these days of extraordinary ease in the money market. It is indeed the lowest coupon ever carried by that type of government security. Nevertheless inquiries already received for the forthcoming issue indicate that Mr. Mellon will experience no difficulty whatever in selling the certificates. He has once more proved his ability to judge the money market with exceptional shrewdness.

The lowest rate previously paid on a certificate issue was back in 1934 when, incidentally, conditions in the money market closely paralleled those prevailing today. But even in those days the best the government could do was to sell a 2 1/2 per cent note.

ALMOST EQUALLED

That rate was almost equaled last June when an issue of $428,375,000 twelve-month certificates was marketed on a 2 1/2 per cent basis. The June offering was oversubscribed six times. Whether the forthcoming issue will be in as great demand is a question but it is possible, as certificates are much desired by banks because they create government deposits which bear interest.

While the treasury never has sold certificates on as low an income basis, it has bettered 2 1/2 per cent in selling non-interest bearing treasury bills on two occasions. On July 14 it sold $50,000,000 bills at a discount of 1 1/2 per cent while on Aug. 18 it sold an issue of $120,000,000 at a discount of 1.96 per cent. However, those were short term issues not running over two or three months whereas the present issue will not mature for an entire year.

Rates of interest on government financing have progressively declined all through the year. The government has sold two issues of certificates of indebtedness this year. One, as already said, bears 2 1/2 per cent. The first, sold last March, consisted of $482,841,000 nine months certificates yielding 3 1/2 per cent. A year ago, during the height of the speculative era, the September financing was done on a 4 1/2 per cent basis.

HIGH FIGURE
Including the current issue total treasury financing in that type of security this year will reach approximately $1,238,214,000. The treasury department also has sold no less than five issues of non-interest bearing bills which aggregated $382,944,000. The grand total of government financing, including the September offerings, amounts to approximately $1,600,000,000.

In the majority of cases the new issues have been made to refund old ones and have not resulted in any increase in the public debt. In fact the public debt has decreased moderately this year. The total gross debt on December 31, 1929, was $16,300,922,187 while as of Aug. 31 this year it stood at $16,187,556,782.

The September operation will result in a further debt curtailment. Maturities of this month aggregate approximately $400,000,000, consisting of $350,000,000 of certificates and $50,000,000 treasury bills. To meet the excess over the pending offering the government will have available accumulated sinking fund monies. The treasury has virtually ceased to buy outstanding bonds for the sinking

Urge Prompt Attention For All Body Sore Spots

Madison.—Cancer is like a rebellion in a state. Unless it is checked at once by heroic efforts, it may result in a general invasion which destroys all.

Because it is still impossible to definitely determine the causes of cancer the educational committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin in a bulletin today urges prompt attention to any parts of the body which have continued soreness.

"What is it that starts the cancer cell on its malignant career?" asks the bulletin. "What extraordinary impulse is implanted in a group of cells to make them run amok throughout the body? We do not know. Under the microscope we can see the birth of a cancer, we can see it grow, we can see it spread, we can see it invade and destroy the healthy tissues, we can tell cancer and tumor growth. Whole chapters in the life history of cancer are open to our view. But the chapters that we are most anxious to read are closed.

"These are the chapters on the ultimate cause and on the essential nature of cancer. Perhaps the analogy that is easiest to follow, is to look upon cancer as a local rebellion of a group of discontented cells within that commonwealth of working cells which form the human body. The rebellious cells throw off restraint; and, if the local riot be not promptly checked, by heroic measures, it may develop into a generalized invasion which destroys the whole commonwealth.

"But what is it that generates this discontent and excites this rebellion? It may be that some evil foreign invading fund. It is estimated that accumulations of sinking fund monies as a result total about $100,000,000, which would be more than ample to cover not only the new issue but also some $25,000,000 of interest payable Sept. 15.

fluence has entered into the lives of those cells, changing their character and transforming them from law-abiding workers into lawless destroyers. That corresponds with the hypothesis that cancer is caused by a special and external cancer parasite of which, however, there is no certain proof. The fact that cancer is non-infectious has always been a difficulty in the way of that hypothesis.

"The truth is that the only known parasite of cancer is the cancer cell itself. Indeed every new growth, whether it be cancerous or non-cancerous, is a new birth of cells, each of which is parasitic upon the parent organism. The only difference between the cancer and non-cancer is that the former is more invasive and more destructive than the latter.

"Although the decline and death of cancer is the shortest chapter in the life history of cancer, it is one of the most significant. A cancer is a living thing; and, like all other living things, it cannot live forever. A few cancers reach the term of their natural life before they kill the patient. Every doctor who has had much experience of cancer can recall instances where a cancer appears to have been checked in its malignant career. Where it has ceased to grow and where it has died out. What sometimes happens is this: the doctor declares with truth that an advanced cancer is hopelessly inoperable and that he can do no more; the patient in desperation tries some quick remedy. Then the incredible thing happens: the cancer begins to die and the patient begins to live again. But not one in a thousand cancers, perhaps not one in ten thousand, are so obliging as to die before they kill their human host."

The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon and 11 p. m. to midnight. Astrological configurations on this date are too vague for clear interpretation. It need not, however, be a blank. As your life today has been determined by the way you lived yesterday, so your tomorrow is being determined by the way you live today. Improve that which you have!

The child born on this September 11th will have a self-reliant, courageous nature. It will not need aggressive supervision and restraint. It will be full of common-sense, ingenuity, and industry. It will be companionable, love sports, love animals, and be devoted to its home.

You are not a commercial-minded person—your loves, your sentiments, are the things which make your world go round. You do not like to listen to pure reason, and you refuse to see through lenses which are too disillusioning. You want to be fooled, and you want to be blind. You courageously fight for your ideals, and it causes you great pain.

CANADA TO ASK FOR MORE RIGHTS IN BROADCASTING

Dominion Now Has but Few Stations Operating Under Agreement

BY ROBERT MACK
(Copyright 1930 by Cons. Press)
Washington (CPA)—Britannia doesn't rule the ether waves but it is striving to get more than its present allotment for Canada—its main dominion—and wrest them from the United States.

Canada believes it is entitled to more than the six exclusive channels out of the 96 available to the North American continent, and repeatedly has so expressed itself. Besides these exclusive frequencies it shares 11 others with stations within the United States, and in the other countries on the continent.

Current reports from the dominion are to the effect that Canada again will make a plea for more frequencies. And its claim, as in the past, will be that it is unable to cover its immense geographical territory with its very meager facilities.

Following an exhaustive survey completed last year, the Royal Commission on radio of Canada issued a report in which the assertion is made that Canada was entitled to more frequencies.

PASS OVER MATTERS
The commission composed of high officials of the government, however, did not dwell upon this delicate subject of frequency distribution. Among other things the commission urged government ownership of Canada's 60-odd stations and a new alignment of them, to get the best possible coverage.

Just now how and when the dominion will make its request for additional facilities is not divulged. The reports from Canada have been coupled with rumblings from Washington that the Federal Radio Commission proposed a shift of stations. It is indicated that Canada will make its plea when the commission is in the midst of a station shift, so that frequencies might be cleared for assignment to the dominion. There is no official confirmation of this, however.

Some significance is attached to the official visit to this continent of Sir A. G. Lee, engineer, of the British Broadcasting company, the governmental agency in England controlling broadcasting. Col Lee attended the conference of the Institute of Radio Engineers at Toronto a fortnight ago and last week was in Washington. He discussed radio matters generally.

IS THREAT
The Canadian situation is not the only one which threatens a disruption of continental broadcasting conditions. Both Mexico and Cuba have intimated growing dissatisfaction over their allotments of facilities. And from Mexico come reports that a new unlicensed station using high power, shortly will go on the air and sweep the southern portion of the United States.

This station was scheduled to begin operations on Sept. 1, but according to unofficial advice, it has been unable to obtain certain necessary apparatus, said to be located on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. The station plans to broadcast both in Spanish and English and operate on one of the cleared channels used by a station in this country. Should this "phantom" station in Mexico begin operations, it probably will cause the calling of another North American conference at which other nations will try to get additional frequencies from this country. The existing distribution is based on a "gentleman's agreement" between Canada and the United States, and legally is not binding.

SICK CHILDREN NOT ALLOWED IN SCHOOL

Teachers Also Should Remain Away if They Feel Ill
Meating Says

Warning that children who are ill with and who have symptoms of certain diseases or ailments must be excluded from school is contained in a report received by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, from the state health department.

The report is known as rule 17 of the health department and reads:

"All teachers, school authorities and health officers having jurisdiction shall not permit the attendance in any private, parochial or public school of any pupil afflicted with a severe cough, a severe cold, itch, lice or other vermin, or any contagious skin disease, or who is filthy in body or clothing, or who has any of the following dangerous, contagious or infectious diseases: "Diphtheria, small pox, scarlet fever, measles, including German measles, whooping cough, chicken pox, mumps, pulmonary tuberculosis, Asiatic cholera (cholerae), yellow fever, typhus fever, bubonic plague, cerebrospinal meningitis, influenza (la grippe), or acute anterior poliomyelitis.

"The teachers in all schools shall, without delay, send home any pupil

Here Are Places To Fish For Big Bass This Fall

BY B. A. CLAFIN
An unusual number of inquiries have come to me recently asking where to go for fall bass fishing. So many, in fact, that I deem it of enough importance and interest to my readers to show in this article a brief outline of my replies.

I pointed out a few places to my inquirers where reasonably good bass fishing may be had, and which are not so far from the Fox river valley as some of the regions in our northern counties. One of these places is the Peshtigo river, below High Falls, and near where the who is previously sick even if the ailment is unknown, and said teacher shall inform the parents or guardians of said pupil and also the local health officer as speedily as possible, and said health officer shall examine into the case and take such action as is reasonable and necessary for the benefit of the pupils and to prevent spread of the infection.

Superintendent Meating also has informed teachers in county schools that when they feel ill they should leave school and have a substitute take their places. "Teachers too often stay in school when ill and unnecessarily expose children to the same ailments," Mr. Meating stated

Thunder river enters that stream. Not only are Small Mouth bass being taken there now, but Wall-eyes, as well. They take kindly to small spinners used with pork rinds. However, personally, I do not consider these just the best lures. Anyone caring to write me will be furnished with a description of the several lures I prefer and use successfully.

Over on the Wolf river, north of Shiocton, is another place where Small Mouth bass may be taken. I get them, and big ones about five miles above that town under the clay banks that line some of the deep holes.

Up on the Door-co peninsula at North Point, out of Sand Bay, is another place where the bass are biting well right now. I had the pleasure recently of viewing a catch of twenty-eight fine Small Mouths that were taken there casting. These fish were very uniform in size and I am safe in saying that the smallest one weighed at least two and a half pounds. From that they ran up to one of about four pounds.

There are some excellent lakes in Oconto-co where Oswego bass are biting well at the present time. I will give the names of them to anyone desiring them.

On the Menominee reservation, a short way northeast from Keshena, there are some lakes which also contain plenty of bass. I get them there every fall. I consider the best time for bass fishing to be early in the morning or rather late in the day—say from six p. m. on until darkness sets in, and after that as long as one wishes to fish. Occasionally, I take them on plugs of various kinds with a casting rod of light weight, but much prefer the sport of landing them with one of my five ounce tly rods and surface flies. I consider that the acme of all angling sport. It requires careful preparation and not a little knowledge of the right kind of flies and other tackle to be successful. But when you have hooked a bass of some three pounds weight you have a fight on your hands, and one which calls for careful technique if you are to come off winner and with an unbroken rod or leader.

London—A tunnel under the English Channel between England and France cannot beat—least for the present. Talk about construction of such a tunnel has been going on for years, and the idea went so far as to cause engineers to submit various plans for it. "FASHION," says Amos Parrish, noted fashion analyst of New York, "Fashion is whatever the majority of people are using at any one time." There are "high" fashions, the things favored by the wealthy few, and there are popular fashions, the things everybody is choosing. "High" fashions are generally a year or so in advance of the popular fashions, but sometimes they are too extreme ever to become popular at all.

The real successes of the season, the fashions that the whole world approves, are the wisest ones to choose in furniture—for one must live with his furniture many years. So we have chosen for this fashion show the leading popular styles, pieces that are lovely and simple and livable, pieces that you will like to have around you for years and years to come.

We are showing them in pleasant groupings, just as you would assemble them in your own home, carefully selected for color harmony and relation of design. We want you to come and see, gain pointers for your own home—and you need feel no obligation, whatever, to buy.

Be sure to visit the model rooms, and don't miss the displays in our windows. Our decorators will be glad to consult with you at any time about adapting these groups or creating others for your own home.

BETTER FUTURE IS SEEN FOR AMERICAN GROWERS OF WOOL

Immediate Prospects, However, Show Little Encouragement

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Only in the future prospect do the wool growers of the United States see prosperity. For the immediate present statisticians hold out little encouragement. Consumption of wool goods has been hampered by depression in many countries and especially in the United States because of high temperatures.

Lack of moisture has made the maintenance of large herds of sheep a gamble in the range states and, with the bad condition of the pasture lots and the high cost of feed to farmers, there is a probability that large numbers of sheep will be marketed. A reduction of this sort, if extended, means a drop in wool production and consequent higher prices.

For the moment markets for wool are lethargic and it is expected they will remain so until the English sales this month, when the Australian and South African clips will come on the market and determine the general trend for the immediate future.

The British cloth manufacturers have taken a trifle more raw wool than was anticipated but cloth markets are quiet both here and abroad. Business in Europe is hampered by economic conditions.

On the other hand receipts of domestic wool in Boston have been higher than last year. Over 130,000,000 pounds of wool have reached Boston so far this year. Imports have been low but consumption has been estimated at less than 250,000,000 pounds compared with well over 300,000,000 pounds in 1929. This country normally consumes far more wool than it produces.

Demand for woolen clothing is expected to be high this fall and winter, although fur coats and fur trimmed coats in recent years have been sold on nearly the same price level as woolen garments. This will take care of some of the wool which is sold under distress, but it is noticeable that some of the largest and most prosperous woolen textile manufacturers are divorcing themselves from the domestic market and establishing their own ranches in Australia, where they produce the particular grades desired in their operations. This effectively removes them as a buying factor in the domestic markets.

Government officials say the profits of lamb feeders for the last four or five years are in a fair way to be wiped out, owing to the drought and the high cost of feed. Some of them are feeding their lambs on a share basis with anyone possessing feed, or the money to buy it. This is throwing quantities of pulled wool on the markets.

REPORT INDICATES SUPPLY OF MILK IS RAPIDLY DECREASING

Enormous Excess Stock Reported on July 1 Reduced to Shortage

BY W. F. WINSEY
About the middle of the month of August the flow of milk was reported considerably below that of last year, according to the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets. The enormous excess of storage stocks on July 1 was reduced to a shortage of 6,324,000 pounds on August 1. The report of the August 1 holdings for the country was released on Aug. 12 and according to government reports was somewhat of a surprise to the large majority of the industry as the shortage was considerably greater than was anticipated by most operators.

Production is still declining. According to reports the hay crop will be very light and considerable grain will have to be fed the coming fall and winter.

Quotations on the Plymouth Cheese Board were steadily advancing since July 25 when they were at the low point during the year. On Aug. 15, they stood at 16c. Dealers on primary markets held stocks firmly to asking prices. Some experienced considerable difficulty in filling contracts because of the light current receipts and the large percentage of cheese which is "off quality." Stocks were closely cleared in practically all quarters. Somewhat of a shortage developed on Longhorns and Square Prints because of the seasonal lighter makes of these styles.

Cheese quotations during August up to this writing were advancing at the principal distributing markets. The net "into storage" movement of cheese during July was approximately 800,000 pounds lighter than during the same month last year.

POTATOES SET
Potato prospects were reduced more than 6 per cent during July by the heat and drought that was general over the eastern half of the country. The conditions of the crop declined 33 per cent normal on July 1 to 76 per cent on August 1. This season's production was indicated to be (on Aug. 12) less than 373,000,000 bushels which would be only about 3 per cent larger than the short 1929 crop and 5 per cent below the average production of the preceding five years.

The loss in yield prospects was particularly sharp in a belt from Nebraska and the Dakotas through to Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. The expected yield of the north-central states on August 1 was only 11 per cent above the low average yield of 1929 and 6 per cent below the average preceding years.

The losses in expected production during July amounted to 7 per cent in the 19 surplus-producing states and more than 8 per cent in the 16 different states; is estimated to be 11 per cent greater than in 1929. The production forecast on August 1 is 261,442,000 bushels for the surplus states, 74,732,000 bushels for the deficit states and 36,333,000 for the southern group.

The prices of potatoes are responding to the decreasing supply. The 1930 season has opened in Maine Wisconsin and Nebraska.

All members of the E. F. U. (formerly) E. R. A. (now) are present at the meeting, Thursday at 8 o'clock at the Odd Fellows Hall for the election of officers.

1930 STATE FAIR BROKE RECORDS

Receipts Were $25,000
More Than Collected at 1929 Event

Madison—While Iowa and Illinois state fairs decreased in attendance this year, not only did Wisconsin's eightieth annual state fair exposition last week break 10 year records on attendance, but total receipts from all sources were approximately $25,000 over those of 1929 according to Manager Ralph E. Ammon. The official figures give the 1930 attendance at the state fair as 253,426 for the six days, while the attendance for 1929 was 272,511. This does not take into consideration a crowd of between 40,000 and 50,000 which rushed the fair grounds on the Sunday previous to opening. In other years the Sunday before opening crowd has rarely exceeded 18,000 persons, so that the total visitors to the fair might be estimated at more than 300,000 for seven days. The most phenomenal increase in attendance occurred on the opening Monday of the fair when 62,970 persons took advantage of the half-price rates to see the big show window of Wisconsin farm and factory products. This mark sets an all-time record for opening days, and total receipts for the day were $23,547.70 as compared to $4,578.75 for the opening day of 1929.

More persons drove automobiles through the gates this year than ever before, a total of 19,930 being registered for the week as against 16,663 in 1928.

Children's attendance this year was practically the same as that for 1929, 76,514 being counted in 1930 as against 76,000 in 1929.

"BRUNSWICK'S LEADERSHIP IN FOUR SCREEN GRID TUBE SET"

Naturally with Brunswick's experience of last year in 4 screen grid tube sets when some manufacturers refused even to acknowledge screen grid tubes—others using only two or three screen grid tubes and NOW this year have announced that they will make a 4 screen grid set—The Brunswick Radio is now past the experimental stage in screen grid building and is generally accepted as the Leader for 1931.

You will remember that many screen grid sets were dumped last year on account of wrong engineering after a tube manufacturer made the following statement:

"It is entirely possible that this year's screen grid set will not work with next year's screen grid tubes."

Some of these sets after replacing with 1931 tubes have already proved this fact.

A NICE GIRL COMES TO TOWN

By Margie Greig

Chapter 25.
TONY RETURNS
MARY LOU saw Brynmor frequently during the next several weeks. It became gradually pleasant to talk with him, things that she preferred not to discuss with Jay.
Before she realized it, Tony was almost due to return. One day, he called her from New York that he hoped to be in London within a week.
It was late on a May afternoon when Gay Girl, like a huge silver homing pigeon, appeared through the clouds above Croyden field.
Great crowds had surged there to welcome Tony home. Praise of his accomplishment was on everyone's lips. Mary Lou shared his glory, too, as "the girl to whom Tony Titherington is engaged." She tried to feign an appearance of happiness, but it was not sincere.
It was with a mingled feeling of fear and suspense that she went to Croyden to meet him—fear that the time had come when their game of "let's pretend" would end, and suspense because—well, when would it end?
Jay and Jerry stood with her in the front of the crowd as Gay Girl swooped down and came to rest not 200 feet from them.
"Run up and meet him, Mary Lou," Jay shouted. "Don't stand there like a stick!"
There was Tony, leaning from the cockpit, grinning his lopsided grin, shaking hands with the field officials. But Mary Lou couldn't move. Tony, at the moment seemed like a stranger—a lean, bronzed, adorable stranger whom she happened, in some inexplicable way, to love.
As she stood there, tongue-tied and glued in her footsteps, Tony suddenly saw her.
"Mary Lou!" he called, and pushed his way through the mob toward her. A moment later he was gripping her hands, grinning down at her.
"Jove, Mary Lou, it is great to see you!" Awkwardly he bent down and kissed her. A score of press cameras clicked as one. Tomorrow the whole world would see their picture under the caption, "Daredevil Flier Greets Fiancee."
Mary Lou blushed. "It's great to see you, too."
It was a stupid, obvious thing to say, but her head was in such a whirl that she could think of nothing else.
"You're thinner, Tony," she gasped, they made their way to a car.
Tony winked. "Friskily pears," he grinned. "They're marvelous reducers."
Yet the change was more intangible than that. She felt that the boy Tony was gone. This was man. She didn't know whether to be glad or sorry. After all, did it matter—since she was to lose him so soon anyway?
Tony was changed, to be sure, yet Mary Lou felt a possessing longing sweep over her. She wanted Tony for herself.
Her fingers itched for the feel of his hair; she wanted to kiss the cleft in his chin; she wanted to have him close beside her. She shut her eyes in agony. Tony continued talking, cheerfully but unemotionally—always of Gay Girl.
"I had a great time in New York, Mary Lou," he said. "There's plenty of dash and daring to those American girls. I fell in love with the lot of them."
"Did you?" Mary Lou knew she hated all American girls.
"You look tired," he commented.
"You mean I'm not looking pretty," she countered. "We can't all spend our lives joyriding for our complexion's sake, you know."
Tony laughed. "I see you haven't lost the old spirit, Mary Lou."
They had arrived at Jay's studio, and Tony came in with her. Jay and Jerry had excused themselves tactfully at the field.
"If they only knew," Mary Lou thought to herself. "If they only knew the news that must greet them when they get home."
Tony himself couldn't understand his feelings toward Mary Lou. Before the flight, he had regarded her as a bright girl, perhaps the nicest of all the girls he knew.
It had been fun for a time—great fun. Now, however, the joke was beginning to wear a bit thin. Oh, well, he supposed it would end soon, and personally he would be glad when it did. Still it was a most awkward situation. She might even want to carry on with the game. Mary Lou, to his surprise, soon put his doubts to rest.
"Well, Tony, the time has come for me to be heartless and thrust you out of my life, hasn't it?" She watched his eyes, for some indication, some hope. If only she could feel convinced that he didn't want the engagement to end!
Tony tossed down a cocktail glass. "Here's to the termination of our engagement," she said with forced gaiety.
Tony smiled across at her.
"There's no hurry as far as I'm concerned. We had a good time before. Why not carry on for a while?"
Secretly he hoped that she wouldn't take up the suggestion. "Always the perfect little gentleman," she mocked. "But I'm not having any more of it, thanks just the same. To tell the truth, I've been hanging on your return to sever the link."
"Oh you, have?" Tony's voice was slightly chagrined. "Sorry, I've interfered with your plans."
"That's all right," she retorted airily. "There's still plenty of time."
"Who's the new bloke?" Tony asked. "I bet some dude has edged into my place."
"I suppose," ventured Tony, "that he's serious, intellectual, more dependent and better looking than I am." He remembered what she had said on the subject once before.
"Maybe."
Tony was not to be put aside so easily.
"Look here, Mary Lou, I've been 48 hours without sleep. Suppose I go home now, snatch a short rest, and then we'll go out tonight and celebrate my return—for the sake of old times. Say you're on!"
Mary Lou's heart jumped to her throat. Did she dare risk it—just one more night? Surely there was no harm in that. Then she remembered her resolution. This pretending had to end some time.
She pushed back her hair. "Nothing doing, Tony. Thanks just the same, but you'll have to find someone else to celebrate with you."
Tony looked both astonished and angry.
"You're not much of a sport."
"All right, I'm not." Her voice was choked.
Tony felt like kicking himself. "I'm sorry I said that, Mary Lou. You're a sport and a darn good one. If it hadn't been for you, I'd never have been able to have started on that trip." He stood looking at her as she curled upon the divan.
"I shall never forget that, Mary Lou. You know that, don't you?" His voice was almost pleading.
"Well, I'm glad I've been of some use in the world."
Tony walked aimlessly about the room for a moment, then turned toward the door.
"Well, I'd better be going. Look here, Mary Lou, you're going to let me see something of you, aren't you?"
"I'm afraid not, Tony."
"Damn it all, why not? Think of all the good times we've had together. It can't end like this."
Why wouldn't he go? She couldn't answer him.
"Well, so long, I'll call you some day soon."
The pent-up tears flowed freely the moment Tony had closed the door. Mary Lou's whole body stiffened in sudden disgust with herself.
"Oh, you fool, you little fool," she muttered. "There was no need to do that. At least you could have had him tonight. What on earth possessed you?"
(Copyright, 1930, Margie Greig)
And now Mary Lou regrets her move! Developments in tomorrow's chapter bring her even more misery.

PROGRESSIVES ARE FACED WITH CHARGE OF RACKETEERING

Kohler Claims Madison Ring Supporters Took "Honest" Graft

Milwaukee —(P)—A charge of political racketeering was hurled against Progressive-Republican leaders by Gov. Walter Kohler in a campaign speech here today.

The governor said that "one of the most important of the Madison Ring" had received more than $21,000 from the state treasury in six years and that another had received $23,000 in state funds during one year.

Gov. Kohler did not name the supporters.

"I shall oppose this kind of 'honest graft' with all the strength at my command," the governor said.

"The examples I have mentioned scarcely begin to tell the whole extent and breadth of racketeering to which the Madison Ring machine, under hypocritical banner of so-called 'progressivism' has resorted.

"In the last session of the legislature I recommended the consolidation of seven boards administering state trust funds into one board of investments and annuities in order to safeguard the trust funds of the state. The measure was plainly and clearly in the interests of Wisconsin's progress, and it passed the senate by a substantial vote. In the assembly these same so-called 'progressives' who pretend to be interested in the welfare of Wisconsin killed the bill. However, on reconsideration of the measure a member of the assembly read to the house a long list of dubious loans of questionable securities many of which were made to supporters of so-called 'progressivism'. Among these was a loan of $21,000 to the 'progressive' candidate for governor in 1928, on a farm whose assessed valuation was only $19,500.

"Here again 'progressivism' meant not progress—but political racketeering, and when the truth was revealed as to the exploitation of sacred public trusts for the benefits of a selfish political faction, the so-called 'progressives' in the assembly were forced to pass the bill which became a law with my signature.

"Innumerable other instances exist where 'progressivism' has meant, not progress, but the thwarting of progress in Wisconsin. But despite this systematic opposition to my measures, much was accomplished during the last two years."

ASSEMBLYMAN SEEKS U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Milwaukee —(P)—After serving Wisconsin for two years as a member of the assembly, George E. Kleinzendorf, 47, today sought to become a citizen of the United States.

When he was elected to office, he told Circuit Judge John C. Kleczka, he believed himself a citizen because his parents brought him to this country while he was but a child. The judge indicated citizenship would be granted. Kleinzendorf said his parents became citizens as soon as possible after arrival.

BLIND FORMER SENATOR SPENDS $2,300 IN RACE

Washington —(P)—Expenditures of $2,300 in behalf of the campaign of T. P. Gore, blind former senator, for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Oklahoma have been reported to the senate campaign funds committee.

Another statement filed with the committee showed that $12,500 had been used for the campaign of James Elwood Jones for the Republican nomination for senator in West Virginia.

BLAINE SAYS KOHLER DISLIKES CRITICISM

Bismarck —(P)—Pointing out that Gov. Kohler "has grown peevish" under the criticism of his political opponents, Sen. John J. Blaine declared that no "official, no matter how arrogant he may be, is in any degree superior to the rights of the people."

The senator made the declaration in a speech here today in behalf of Philip LaFollette's candidacy for governor.

"When a man becomes a candidate for office his public record is open for inspection," the senator said. "We have been inspecting the record of the present administration. The governor does not like the disclosures that have been made. Doesn't the governor understand that when he asks the people to vote for him he invites an inspection of his public record?"

"I see no reason why the governor should get mad and begin to call us names when we point out that the public record discloses that he is the most extravagant governor that the state has ever had."

FIND CAMP SITES OF LOST EXPEDITION

Valuable Data Concerning Fate of Franklin Explorers Uncovered

Edmonton, Alta. —(P)—Discovery on King William's Island of two camp sites of the lost expedition of Sir John Franklin has added another chapter to the story of long-missing Arctic explorers.

Word of the discovery was received by radio from W. E. Gilbert, pilot for Major L. T. Burwash, Canadian government explorer on an airplane expedition to the region of the magnetic pole.

The message gave no details of the find, but said valuable data concerning the far north and the fate of the Franklin expedition which sailed for the north 85 years ago, had been obtained.

Burwash and Gilbert left Edmonton on Aug. 23 for the purpose of determining the extent of the shift of the magnetic pole and to seek relics of the Franklin expedition.

Sir John Franklin, a British naval officer, set out in May, 1845, with two ships and a company of 129 officers and men to discover a north-west passage.

The ships, the Terror and the Erebus, were last seen at the entrance of Lancaster sound. It was 14 years later that first information of their subsequent fate was obtained.

Later searchers found relics and skeletons on King William's island which established that survivors of the expedition after loss of their ship had attempted to reach the Hudson Bay company's post at Fish River.

In a gain at Point Victory was found an account of the expedition's movements before the abandonment of the ships.

POLITICS DIRTIES CLEAN MEN, SOL SAYS

Elkhorn —(P)—Campaign mud-slinging always dirties the official with the cleanest record, Solomon Levi, state treasurer, said in a campaign speech here last night.

"The longer I am in politics the more I am impressed with the fact that the official who has the cleanest record is the one against whom the most slanderous attacks are made," he said.

"It is disheartening to observe these conditions. We spend millions on our schools, hoping to realize the standards of our people, and yet the amount of education a man has had does not deter him from making statements that have no foundation."

The treasurer's speech was regarded as a commentary on the campaign methods of Edward J. Samp, Conservative-Republican candidate for treasurer.

GOVERNMENT TO STUDY DEFICIENT CHILDREN

Washington —(P)—The task of adjusting mentally exceptional children through special school training will be made the subject of extended government study by a new branch of the federal office of education.

The new service, announced today, will be under the direction of Elise H. Martens, California specialist in the training of such children and will include the preparation of special courses for deficient and backward children in cooperation with school officials.

Special attention will be given in the work to averting the development of mentally handicapped children into juvenile offenders and later adult criminals.

"Education faces the problem," the education officer said, "of making satisfactory provision for those children who need special adjustment if it is to contribute to the world the best it can give to the social welfare and law enforcement. The new position in the office of education is a step in the direction of its solution."

Miss Martens is a graduate of the University of California and has been connected with the school systems of Oakland and Berkeley. She will continue a cooperative relationship with child adjustment work at Berkeley and will establish similar relations with other school systems engaging in the task.

FIND DRUG WHICH BRINGS NORMALITY TO INSANE PERSONS

Sodium Amytal Brings Sanity for Period to Mental Sufferers

Milwaukee—(P)—Sodium amytal, a drug first used as an anesthetic, will produce apparent normality for certain periods in persons mentally abnormal. Dr. W. J. Blackwelder, Associate Professor of Neuropsychiatry, University of Wisconsin, told the State Medical Society of Wisconsin convention here today.

"Sodium amytal has been a life saving measure in certain convulsive states," Dr. Blackwelder said. "It is especially effective in the production of periodic sleep in the acutely disturbed and depressed cases associated with exhaustion."

"In cases of catatonia (a type of insanity) patients arouse from their stupor for from two to eighteen hours following each injection and appear to be perfectly normal. During such lucid periods the patient eats normally, discusses current events and past history. It seems probable, that given this approach to what has heretofore been an inaccessible mental state, the physician may secure valuable hints about some of the factors that induced the condition, and that a greater progress can be made in the study and treatment of this obscure condition."

Continuing the discussion of heart thumping the discussion of heart disease, Dr. C. C. Sutton, Northwestern Medical School, Chicago, speaking on experiments into the causes of angina pectoris, a form of heart disease, said that at least one cause is a slowing of the flow of the blood to the heart muscle. From blood it is "believed that angina pectoris is due primarily to interference in the flow of blood through the nutrient vessels of the heart," Dr. Sutton said.

Acquired deafness will show a sharp decrease in a few years if children are guarded against infections, fevers, tonsils and adenoids, Dr. R. L. Bower, Kansas City, Mo., and formerly of Madison, Wis., told the convention.

"It is estimated that over 30 per cent of the inmates of our institutions for the deaf are children who have an acquired deafness which might have been prevented if taken in time," Dr. Bower said.

COULD PREVENT
Giving a resume of his experience in the battle with tuberculosis, Dr. J. W. Gale, Associate Professor of Surgery, University of Wisconsin, said that the development of surgical treatment can accomplish the arrest of the disease or expedite the arrest in a fair percentage of cases.

"In 1925, 2,200 patients suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis received treatment in private and state sanatoria," he said. "In 1929 this number had increased to 2,600 and their treatment cost over one half million dollars."

Dr. R. D. Thompson, Superintendent of the Wisconsin State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Waits, Wisconsin, condemned the injudicious use of light treatments by the "so-called doctors and quacks who are posing as electric specialists and who are advising light treatments in certain types of tuberculosis where it is not indicated."

"Light treatments is not a cure for tuberculosis and is extremely dangerous in certain types," he said.

Dr. A. A. Hoyer, Beaver Dam, advised that the restriction of certain foods and addition of foods rich in vitamins appears to be beneficial in certain types of tuberculosis.

"Until such time as we know more, those suffering from tuberculosis should follow no wild-goose chase but should follow out the methods and treatments that are universally accepted as sound—fresh air, sunlight, artificial light as prescribed by the physician, and rest under constant medical supervision," Dr. Hoyer said.

Middle aged men bear the greatest burdens of the world and therefore should guard their health, Dr. H. B. Kasten, Beloit, told the convention.

"Because the welfare of a great many people is dependent upon the health and vigor of the men of middle age, it is particularly important that these men present themselves to their physicians for periodic examination in order that disease processes may be detected early when they can still be remedied or checked," Dr. Kasten said. "The prostate gland because of its anatomical position is frequently the seat of disabling disease processes which if undetected result in relative or complete disability."

Dr. Theodore L. Squier of the A. O. Smith Corp., Milwaukee said that "any success which may come in reducing the appalling wastage of life through degenerative disease must come through the early recognition

GAS TAX NETTED $963,344 IN JULY

Largest Amount Collected in a Single Month Since August, 1929

Madison—(P)—Gasoline tax receipts totaled $963,344.40 in July, the greatest amount for a single month since Aug., 1929, State Treasurer Solomon Levitan reported in his monthly financial statement today.

Although gasoline tax receipts jumped to a high point for the year, the balance of state funds on Sept. 1, 1930 was $19,370,492.71, representing a decrease of $2,262,564.76 since Aug. 1 balance.

Gasoline taxes for the first seven months of 1930 indicate that receipts for the year will exceed those of 1929. Total receipts up to Aug. 1 this year exceed those of last year to that date by $671,067.46. The refunds from April 1 to July 1, totaled $134,553.98.

A decrease in the balance of all state funds was caused by disbursements of the general fund which totaled $8,424,377.74. Receipts for the general fund were $6,271,381.12.

made in the university fund income and $182,400.03 was expended from the normal school fund income. Receipts during August totaled $8,310,869.66 and disbursements amounted to $10,573,434.42. The balance on hand Aug. 1 was $21,033,047.47. Of the Sept. 1 balance, $14,288,182.42 was deposited in banks not subject to check and $5,080,648.43 was deposited in checking banks. Cash on hand totaled $1,551.86. Cash on hand at the state's bank at West Allis during the state fair was $100.

You frequently hear people say: it pays to buy good shoes. The statement is true, but some think it means that high prices must be paid for quality. Kinney Shoes are good shoes at low prices. The reason for this is plain to more than 6,000,000 people who bought Kinney shoes last year. A great nation-wide organization operating more than 350 shoe stores and selling the output of 5 Kinney factories make possible the economies reflected in Kinney's low prices.

FALL OPENING

Brings the hats Paris likes for early Fall

The new hats are so new you would think Paris milliners just discovered your head. In reality that's just what they did do. Your curls are seen for the first time in years, brims are slashed to show your face, and the new half crowns have a rakish, debonnaire charm. Some are as demure as baby bonnets. Some are as austere as a Dutch headdress. But all cling snugly to the back of the head and there's as much chic in the way you wear them as there is in the way they are made. Felt and velvet soleil and felt, double brimmed felt, and velvet used alone create hats that are miracles of sleekness and versatility.
